Flying Yanks Snap Trap On Disintegrating Reds

Bomb Output Hiking

More A-Weapons Being Ordered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — An increase in the production of atomic bombs has been ordered today by the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee as a result of the Korean war.

The committee directed the Atomic Energy Commission to speed up the manufacture of A-bombs and other atomic weapons, by expanding existing facilities if necessary.

As a result, the commission agreed to recommend to President Truman that Congress be requested to appropriate an additional $500 million for that purpose.

This was disclosed today by congressional sources, who reported that the nation's atomic program was "in good shape" in comparison to that of the Soviet Union. They anticipated that the request will be approved by the President and submitted to Congress shortly.

THE NEW FUNDS will be in addition to the $817 million originally requested for the AEC for the current fiscal year, plus the $260 million subsequently recommended for making the hydrogen bomb.

Informed sources stated that Secretary of Defense Johnson advised the congressional committee that he favored expansion of the atomic bomb program to the fullest extent possible.

They reported that Johnson's representatives failed to take a definite stand before the Communist invasion of South Korea on whether the [illegible] program was sufficient.

They added, however, that following the outbreak of the war June 25, Johnson told the committee he favored the production of as many atomic weapons as possible.

The committee, which is composed of both Senate and House members, then summoned the commissioners and at a closed meeting urged that the program be speeded up.

The AEC stated that this would require additional funds and the committee advised the commission to go ahead.

The House appropriations committee has not acted yet on the earlier request for H-bomb funds, but its approval is regarded as virtually assured.

A similar request for additional funds for the A-bomb program also would undoubtedly meet swift approval.

INFLATION CURB READIED

FHA Tightening Rulings On Luxury Home Building

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The Federal Housing Administration pulled out of the luxury home finance market today in a new move to curb inflation sparked by the Korean war.

FHA field offices throughout the country were ordered to channel available government mortgage money into moderate and low cost housing. In addition, FHA tightened its policy on approval of loans in all categories.

The action was taken by Housing Commissioner Richards as a followup to President Truman's decision to curb non-essential home building as the nation concentrates on the defense program.

Richards did not specify what homes fall into the "high cost" bracket, but it was believed units costing more than $15,000 generally would be affected. The price varies from place to place.

Actually Richards did not ban the use of FHA money for luxury apartments or houses, nor are FHA approvals on high cost projects immediately affected.

OFFICIALS SAID, however, Richards made it almost impossible for builders to obtain FHA money for those projects.

To accomplish the new policy, he told his field representatives:

"You should analyze 'demand' on a basis of 'need' rather than a rate of market absorption which could be promoted for the apparent total effective demand.

"Commitments (to build) should be issued only to the extent which in your judgment is necessary to satisfy that portion of effective demand which represents an actual need for new housing accommodations."

Richards also ordered FHA offices to:

1. Approve loan commitments only if the builder expects to start work "without delay" and finish the project within one year on new developments.

2. Exert "conscientious and diligent effort" to cancel loan commitments where work has not been started in accordance with the FHA option.

Richards declared that the measures will ease the shortage in building materials by slowing down the demand. He pointed out that it is "essential to conserve building materials which may be needed for national defense purposes and to curb inflation."

Food Prices Up 2.7 Pct. Since War's Outbreak

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — A special government survey showed today that retail food prices went up 2.7 percent from the start of the Korean war to July 31.

A hopeful sign for consumers was disclosed, however, in the fact that the upward trend tapered off in the last half of July and some prices started falling.

Ewan Clague, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, released the results of a study made on grocery costs in 13 cities July 31. It covered 25 different foods.

From June 15 to the end of July, retail food prices sharply increased in all cities except Pittsburgh where there was only a slight fractional change.

Bread, coffee and sugar prices hit new record highs. Bread prices went up four percent after remaining stationary from March, 1949, to mid-June 1950. Coffee went up seven percent and sugar six percent.

Bacon soared six percent, hamburger three percent, butter one percent and eggs 11 percent.

Clague reported to Labor Secretary Tobin that his agency will make another special survey on food costs on Aug. 15 in order to keep a close tab on the effects of the war on the domestic economy.

He pointed out that despite recent gains, food prices still are three percent below the all-time record in July, 1948.

Woman Choked Aboard Flyer

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 10—An elderly Iowa woman was choked to death today aboard the Southern Pacific railroad's Golden State Limited while the streamliner rolled eastward through Arizona.

Police said a discharged railroad worker admitted the crime.

The victim was identified as Mrs. A. C. Park, 70, of Grinnell, Iowa.

Douglas Police Chief Percy Bowden said the discharged railroad worker, Howard Lantz, 28, admitted he murdered the woman in her lower berth about 5 a. m. during a "drunken frenzy."

County Seeking Return Of Overpayment

Pickaway County commissioners hope to collect nearly $14,000 from the state as the result of overpayments nearly 20 years ago.

The commissioners have hired the A. and T. Dellenbaugh Investigators of Columbus to obtain the settlement for them.

According to a petition drawn up by the commissioners, Pickaway County paid $13,667.39 in excess of the amount required for payment of care for feeble minded patients in Orient State School.

The petition claims that the overpayment was made during the period of Jan. 1, 1931, and Dec. 31, 1942, and continues to ask the Sundry Claims Department to return the amount.

The claim of excess payment is based on an opinion relating to assessments for patients in the institution as interpreted by the state attorney general's office.

Salary for the Columbus investigating firm is set at $10 per month for two years, plus a $100 bonus upon completion of the business.

About a dozen other Ohio counties also have hired the investigators to represent them in the same type of action, the commissioners said.

TWO NEW AERIAL ASSAULT RECORDS SET

Huge Armada Of B-29s Rain 625 Tons Of Bombs On Reds

TOKYO, Aug. 10—The Korean war's heaviest aerial assault was unleashed today when 625 tons of bombs were dropped on targets in North Korea by the largest armada of U. S. B-29s yet sent over the invaders' homeland.

Announcing the massive attack, Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared tonight that approximately 70 of the Superfortresses cascaded more than 400 tons of explosives on three targets in the industrial area of Wonsan, 80 miles above the 38th Parallel border.

Other B-29s unloaded more than 200 tons of bombs on "strategic interdiction targets" in the enemy's "transportation network north of the 38th Parallel," according to MacArthur's announcement.

The United Nations supreme commander's communique, issued at 8:30 Thursday night, said the attacks were executed "under good weather conditions."

He said the Superfort raiders, winging over North Korea from bases in Japan and Okinawa, encountered "very little" anti-aircraft fire.

THEY SET TWO new air records for the Korean conflict. It was the biggest force of bombers ever sent over the Korean war theater. And the 1,250,000 pounds of explosives comprised the heaviest bomb load yet dumped on targets in Korea in a single day.

The assault therefore raised the mounting air offensive against the Communist invaders to a new high level.

Editor's Note: If they used 500 pound bombs exclusively, this would mean 2,500 bombs were rained on the enemy in the single day's operations.)

The big Chosen oil refinery was the chief of three main targets struck at Wonsan, a major port on North Korea's east coast.

Several vital rail and highway bridges also were basted in strategic centers north of the 38th Parallel boundary.

The record Superfort strike came on the heels of an announcement from Airforce headquarters in Tokyo that the Communists have lost more than twice as many planes as the Americans.

The spokesman said U. S. Far East Airforces have lost 36 planes during their continuous aerial onslaught which reached the 46th consecutive day Thursday.

He reported 84 Communist planes destroyed either in the air or on the ground.

An additional 31 American planes have been damaged in combat.

THESE FIGURES do not include losses by the Royal Australian Airforce, but these are known to be light.

The spokesman declared the figures do not give an accurate picture of the 'absolute air domination" which the United Nations forces have held.

He pointed out that Allied pilots have made thousands of sorties—sometimes as many as three missions in a single day—while the Communists have seldom taken to the air except for the first few days of the war.

Thursday's record B-29 assault came after a 100-ton smash Wednesday against the enemy's transportation network on the North Korean east coast.

More than 14 important bridges were reported knocked out in the area in the last five days.

Superforts were joined by B-26s, which concentrated on bridges near the battle lines on the central front, and F-82s which strafed military targets along the vital Naktong river defense line.

Red Reporter Says Gen. Dean Probably Is Dead

LONDON, Aug. 10—The London Communist Daily Worker's war correspondent in Korea reported today that the missing American general, William F. Dean, was seriously wounded in the battle of Taejon and probably is dead.

In a dispatch from "North Korean Advance Headquarters," Alan Winnington said Dean's escape route from the city is known and it is not regarded as possible that the 24th U. S. Infantry Division commander escaped alive.

(Dean had gone to the front during the bitter battle to save Taejon on July 20 after the Kum river crossing by tankled enemy forces. He was last reported aiding his hard-pressed troops carrying bazooka ammunition and leading a small group cut off by infiltrating Red forces.)

Winnington said Dean and five American GIs fled from Taejon in an automobile which they abandoned when their escape route was cut by North Korean forces.

He said the direction which the general and his group took in their hasty flight for the hills is known and that the North Koreans are searching "for him or his body."

The Daily Worker correspondent reported that the 51-year-old World War II commander of the 44th U. S. Infantry Division abandoned his cap and insignia in his flight.

Protective Group Calls Meeting

The newly-formed Pickaway County Protective Association, a group of county farm operators who are campaigning against rural burglaries and thefts, will meet here Friday night.

The association, scheduled to meet at 8:30 p. m. in Pickaway Courthouse, probably will set up a schedule for deployment of various watch-groups and night patrols.

Gas Burner Freeze Set

Ohio Fuel Halting Installations Now

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. announced Thursday that no further approvals could be granted for the installation of furnaces and conversion burners.

Persons who filed with the company after Monday notices of intent to install gas-fired space heating equipment, are being notified that the equipment cannot be connected at this time.

The company's action was necessitated by the unexpected large number of applications for gas heat, according to Dan McClain, local manager.

In planning in advance for the 1950-51 heating season, Ohio Fuel estimated that 60,000 additional furnaces and burners would be connected to the company lines during 1950. With almost five months of the year remaining, the installations and the approvals for installations already exceed that 60,000, McClain said.

"OHIO FUEL HAS spent $50 million in the last four years in enlarging and improving its system to meet the demands for gas, and has a construction program requiring approximately $20 million for 1951," McClain said.

"Such a program requires long-range planning, engineering and budgeting. It involves contracts for delivery of more gas from the Southwest, construction of transmission and distribution lines and compressor stations, and enlargement of storage fields.

"Obviously, it is impossible to accomplish, in the short time before the heating season arrives, all that would be required to serve a far greater number of heating customers than we anticipated.

"In all fairness to customers already being served — as much as we regret the action,

Night Shift Is Opened Here By GE Plant

A "night trick" was added Wednesday to the production schedule in Circleville General Electric plant.

Ed Grigg, plant manager, said about 30 new employes already have been added to the plant payroll to take over the new shift, supplementing the two daytime shifts which already are in operation. More employes are expected to be added to the new shift later.

Richard H. Peterson has been named foreman of the new shift and is "quality engineer" for the trick.

Peterson opened the first 4 p. m. until midnight shift Wednesday with a motion picture entitled "Magic of Fluorescence," detailing the operation and manufacturing of fluorescent lamps.

Grigg predicted that the number of employes on the new special shift probably will be "more than doubled by the end of the year."

Long-Range Tax Program Due After Election

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—President Truman said today he is not now asking for a new excess profits tax because the time to talk sensibly about a long-range tax program is after the election jitters are over.

The President made it clear at his news conference that when Congress meets next January he will seek enactment of a program which Treasury Secretary Snyder has said is being drawn up in an effort to "tax the profits out of war."

But the chief executive said there is no need to add now to his emergency recommendation for a $5 billion interim tax boost, because the stop-gap program he has proposed is simple, can be approved quickly and will help halt inflation.

Mr. Truman added that at his direction a thorough study is being made of tax-structure revision yielding much heavier returns to the government.

He said there is no doubt that eventually a new excess profits levy will be enacted, but reiterated that he has no plans to seek it now.

Senate Finance Committee members meanwhile predicted approval of the $5 billion interim tax increase asked by the President to help finance the Korean war and global defense program.

One Independent Seeks Office

The name of only one Independent candidate for office in Pickaway County will be placed before voters here this Fall.

He is Allen Eagleson of North Pickaway street, only Independent to beat the 6:30 p. m. Wednesay deadline for filing. Eagleson is seeking office as county auditor. He will be opposed by the Republican incumbent, Fred Tipton. No Democrat filed for the office.

Harriman Data May Change U.S. Asiatic Policy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The return of Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman from the Far East started today a careful administration resurvey of its Asiatic policy.

Harriman gave President Truman the first report of his five-day flying trip to Japan and Korea. He told a news conference that the results of his trip could be announced only by the White House.

Chief purpose of Harriman's journey was to exchange views with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. But it was understood that, as a result, there will be a modification of administration policy.

This might include:

1. A decision on an early peace treaty with Japan. This would permit the use of Japanese soldiers in event the present localized war in Korea becomes a general conflagration.

2. Speeding of armaments to the South Korean forces, whose fighting ability Harriman greatly admires.

3. Strengthening the defenses still further of Indo-China, Thailand and Indonesia—all threatened by Communism.

4. Possible further use of the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in defense of Formosa.

Truman Says No OPA Planned By His Regime

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — President Truman declared today there will be no OPA or other super-government agencies in his administration in peace or war. He said existing departments can handle any situation.

Mr. Truman made the assertion as the House prepared to approve a bill giving the President immediate homefront economic controls and sweeping standby powers to freeze prices and wages and impose rationing.

The measure then will go to the Senate, which is beginning floor debate on the legislation aimed at channeling the nation's defense efforts and curbing inflation during the Korean war.

The President told his news conference that he has been working for five years to improve the government's admin-

Wins Scored In Southern Korea Area

U.S. Driving Near Key City Of Chinju

TOKYO, Aug. 11—(Friday)—A trap was snapped Thursday night on disintegrating Red troops in Korea's southern sector when two of three American columns driving on Chinju linked forces in the eastern environs of that major enemy base.

The trap was closed when the two U. S. columns formed a junction at Taeshen-ni, sealing a corridor between the American troops through which thousands of Communists had been retreating westward.

It was not known how many of the Reds escaped before the trap closed on the reeling invaders.

General Douglas MacArthur announced early Friday that the Reds were preparing defenses on high ground just east of Chinju as U. S. Army troops drove to within six miles of the town.

Marines were moving on Chinju after overrunning Kosong.

Front dispatches said American combat patrols had thrust within four miles east of Chinju.

THE SOUTHERN part of the Reds' invasion front verged on collapse as the U. S. Army's Fifth and 35th Regimental Combat Teams joined forces at Taeshen-ni.

MacArthur said American and South Korean attacks continued against two enemy bridgeheads on the central front near Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

One of these bridgeheads, the UN commander said, has been "contained" by the U. S. First Cavalry and the other "isolated" by South Korean forces.

At a third Red bridgehead on the Naktong river line southwest of Changnyong, MacArthur said, the Communists were fighting desperately against an increasing U. S. 24th Division attack.

The communique said the Reds were unable to build up this bridgehead because of heavy losses and the extreme difficulty of crossing the river.

An Eighth Army field bulletin issued prior to MacArthur's communique reported American troops "wiped out" a Red bridgehead south of Waegwan, killing 300 enemy troops and capturing 20 others.

On the east coast the North Korean invaders recaptured Yongdok and swung a flanking column inland around that anchor port to Chigye, eight miles west-northwest of Pohang, 35 miles northeast of Taegu and 65 miles from the entry harbor of Pusan.

IN THE SOUTH, the Marines in thrusting beyond Kosong made an advance of 12 miles, the Eighth Army bulletin said.

Kosong, a four-way road center, lies 20 miles southeast of Chinju. Because they met stronger resistance than was encountered by the other U. S. units in the westward offensive, the Marines' advance has been slower than that of the 5th and

Commodity Curb Power Refused

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The House today refused to give President Truman authority to regulate commodity speculation during the Korean war.

It did so by voting 140 to 103 to strike out of the President's economic controls bill, the power he asked to establish margin requirements for dealings in corn, wheat, cotton, soybeans and other farm products.

The move was accomplished on an amendment offered by Rep. Cooley, (D) N. D., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

FHA Tightening Rulings On Luxury Home Building

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The Federal Housing Administration pulled out of the luxury home finance market today in a new move to curb inflation sparked by the Korean war.

FHA field offices throughout the country were ordered to channel available government mortgage money into moderate and low cost housing. In addition, FHA tightened its policy on approval of loans in all categories.

County Seeking Return Of Overpayment

Pickaway County commissioners hope to collect nearly $14,000 from the state as the result of overpayments nearly 20 years ago.

The commissioners have hired the A. and T. Dellenbaugh Investigators of Columbus to obtain the settlement for them.

According to a petition drawn up by the commissioners, Pickaway County paid $13,667.39 in excess of the amount required for payment of care for feeble minded patients in Orient State School.

The petition claims that the overpayment was made during the period of Jan. 1, 1931, and Dec. 31, 1942, and continues to ask the Sundry Claims Department to return the amount.

The claim of excess payment is based on an opinion relating to assessments for patients in the institution as interpreted by the state attorney general's office.

Gas Burner Freeze Set

Ohio Fuel Halting Installations Now

The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. announced Thursday that no further approvals could be granted for the installation of furnaces and conversion burners.

Persons who filed with the company after Monday notices of intent to install gas-fired space heating equipment, are being notified that the equipment cannot be connected at this time.

The company's action was necessitated by the unexpected large number of applications for gas heat, according to Dan McClain, local manager.

Night Shift Is Opened Here By GE Plant

A "night trick" was added Wednesday to the production schedule in Circleville General Electric plant.

Ed Grigg, plant manager, said about 30 new employes already have been added to the plant payroll to take over the new shift, supplementing the two daytime shifts which already are in operation. More employes are expected to be added to the new shift later.

Richard H. Peterson has been named foreman of the new shift and is "quality engineer" for the trick.

Peterson opened the first 4 p. m. until midnight shift Wednesday with a motion picture entitled "Magic of Fluorescence," detailing the operation and manufacturing of fluorescent lamps.

Grigg predicted that the number of employes on the new special shift probably will be "more than doubled by the end of the year."

CHAIRMAN of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley arrives at the White House for his daily report to the President on the Korean situation. He carries a large map, folded like a screen, which is placed on an easel in front of the chief executive as the general explains all moves on Korean battle front.

Long-Range Tax Program Due After Election

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—President Truman said today he is not now asking for a new excess profits tax because the time to talk sensibly about a long-range tax program is after the election jitters are over.

The President made it clear at his news conference that when Congress meets next January he will seek enactment of a program which Treasury Secretary Snyder has said is being drawn up in an effort to "tax the profits out of war."

But the chief executive said there is no need to add now to his emergency recommendation for a $5 billion interim tax boost, because the stop-gap program he has proposed is simple, can be approved quickly and will help halt inflation.

Mr. Truman added that at his direction a thorough study is being made of tax-structure revision yielding much heavier returns to the government.

He said there is no doubt that eventually a new excess profits levy will be enacted, but reiterated that he has no plans to seek it now.

Senate Finance Committee members meanwhile predicted approval of the $5 billion interim tax increase asked by the President to help finance the Korean war and global defense program.

One Independent Seeks Office

The name of only one Independent candidate for office in Pickaway County will be placed before voters here this Fall.

He is Allen Eagleson of North Pickaway street, only Independent to beat the 6:30 p. m. Wednesay deadline for filing. Eagleson is seeking office as county auditor. He will be opposed by the Republican incumbent, Fred Tipton. No Democrat filed for the office.

Harriman Data May Change U.S. Asiatic Policy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The return of Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman from the Far East started today a careful administration resurvey of its Asiatic policy.

Harriman gave President Truman the first report of his five-day flying trip to Japan and Korea. He told a news conference that the results of his trip could be announced only by the White House.

Chief purpose of Harriman's journey was to exchange views with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. But it was understood that, as a result, there will be a modification of administration policy.

This might include:

1. A decision on an early peace treaty with Japan. This would permit the use of Japanese soldiers in event the present localized war in Korea becomes a general conflagration.

2. Speeding of armaments to the South Korean forces, whose fighting ability Harriman greatly admires.

3. Strengthening the defenses still further of Indo-China, Thailand and Indonesia—all threatened by Communism.

4. Possible further use of the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in defense of Formosa.

Truman Says No OPA Planned By His Regime

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 — President Truman declared today there will be no OPA or other super-government agencies in his administration in peace or war. He said existing departments can handle any situation.

Mr. Truman made the assertion as the House prepared to approve a bill giving the President immediate homefront economic controls and sweeping standby powers to freeze prices and wages and impose rationing.

The measure then will go to the Senate, which is beginning floor debate on the legislation aimed at channeling the nation's defense efforts and curbing inflation during the Korean war.

The President told his news conference that he has been working for five years to improve the government's admin-

U.S. Driving Near Key City Of Chinju

TOKYO, Aug. 11—(Friday)—A trap was snapped Thursday night on disintegrating Red troops in Korea's southern sector when two of three American columns driving on Chinju linked forces in the eastern environs of that major enemy base.

The trap was closed when the two U. S. columns formed a junction at Taeshen-ni, sealing a corridor between the American troops through which thousands of Communists had been retreating westward.

It was not known how many of the Reds escaped before the trap closed on the reeling invaders.

General Douglas MacArthur announced early Friday that the Reds were preparing defenses on high ground just east of Chinju as U. S. Army troops drove to within six miles of the town.

Marines were moving on Chinju after overrunning Kosong.

Front dispatches said American combat patrols had thrust within four miles east of Chinju.

THE SOUTHERN part of the Reds' invasion front verged of collapse as the U. S. Army's Fifth and 35th Regimental Combat Teams joined forces at Taeshen-ni.

MacArthur said American and South Korean attacks continued against two enemy bridgeheads on the central front near Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

One of these bridgeheads, the UN commander said, has been "contained" by the U. S. First Cavalry and the other "isolated" by South Korean forces.

At a third Red bridgehead on the Naktong river line southwest of Changnyong, MacArthur said, the Communists were fighting desperately against an increasing U. S. 24th Division attack.

The communique said the Reds were unable to build up this bridgehead because of the extreme difficulty of crossing the river.

An Eighth Army field bulletin issued prior to MacArthur's communique reported American troops "wiped out" a Red bridgehead south of Waegwan, killing 300 enemy troops and capturing 20 others.

On the east coast the North Korean invaders recaptured Yongdok and swung a flanking column inland around that anchor port to Chigye, eight miles west-northwest of Pohang, 35 miles northeast of Taegu and 65 miles from the entry harbor of Pusan.

IN THE SOUTH, the Marines in thrusting beyond Kosong made an advance of 12 miles, the Eighth Army bulletin said.

Kosong, a four-way road center, lies 20 miles southeast of Chinju. Because they met stronger resistance than was encountered by the other U. S. units in the westward offensive, the Marines' advance has been slower than that of the 5th and

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The House today refused to give President Truman authority to regulate commodity speculation during the Korean war.

It did so by voting 140 to 103 to strike out of the President's economic controls bill, the power he asked to establish margin requirements for dealings in corn, wheat, cotton, soybeans and other farm products.

The move was accomplished on an amendment offered by Rep. Cooley, (D) N. D., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

35th Army Regimental Combat Teams.

The 5th RCT pushed west along the center and the 35th along the northern side of the triple-pronged offensive before they swerved toward each other to linkup at Taeshen-ni and continue the four-day-old advance.

These two Army units closed a ring of steel around large enemy forces caught in their rear.

The 8th Army communique, issued at 9:30 Thursday evening, said the enemy's resistance to the drive on Chinju was put up "mainly by small scattered units." These Red groups, it added, "have harassed" the Americans "with delaying tactics."

Earlier, it was announced the Americans had scored over-all gains averaging three miles along the southern sector Thursday morning, hurling the foe into a full retreat bordering on a complete rout.

The Thursday night 8th Army announcement said that U. S. First Cavalry Division troops erased the enemy's Kaepondong bridgehead on the Naktong's east bank, some 11 miles northwest of Taegu, inland cornerstone of the United Nations front.

A FEW MILES to the north, the communique related, troops of the South Korean First Division were locked in "close combat" with the Reds at the Opyongdong bridgehead, just above Waegwan.

The South Koreans, it was stated, captured three Russian-made North Korean tanks intact and were "trying to retrieve them." Six other enemy tanks, the bulletin said, were knocked out in the Opyongdong vicinity by American planes and artillery as well as South Korean infantry.

Earlier, it had been announced that the South Korean First Division had wiped out the Opyongdong bridgehead, inflicting at least 900 enemy casualties and flinging the surviving Reds back across the Naktong to its west bank.

But the Thursday night communique from Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's 8th Army field headquarters, referring to the Opyongdong bridgehead battle, admitted:

"The enemy infantry still retains potential strength for counter-attack."

Fire Defense Advisory Group Being Set Up

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — Ohio has a fire defense advisory committee today to set up defenses in the event of enemy bombings.

Dr. William E. Warner, chief of Ohio Civil Defense, called the 11 men together yesterday for their first group session. Charles R. Scott, chief of the state fire marshal's fire prevention bureau, was named co-ordinator.

The group discussed communications, manpower, radiation, and the role of various fire-fighting organizations.

The committee is composed of William H. Cheesman, Dayton, Ohio Fire Chiefs' Association president; William K. Zepp, Lindhurst fire chief and Ohio Fire Fighters Association president; J. W. Huntington, Columbus; Robert H. Ferguson, Cleveland, president of the safety committee of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association.

Harry Krieger, Columbus, chief of the town classification section of the Ohio Inspection Bureau; Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper, assistant adjutant general; State Fire Marshal Harry J. Callan; Foss H. Gragg, program director of the Ohio Fire Safety Committee; Scott and Dr. Warner.

Ex-Localite Is Medical Aide In Korean War

A former Circleville high school star athlete now is playing a key role with the U. S. Army in Korea.

He is Lt. Robert G. Brown, 27, of Greenville, Tenn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rockford Brown of East High street, a medical officer in the 24th Division.

Brown was the medical officer who reported last week of the atrocities committed against two U. S. soldiers who were tied and killed by North Korean Reds.

The former Circleville man told officials that the two soldiers had been tied, one shot through the back of the head and the other bayoneted to death.

Brown's wife, Nancy, and son are now living in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cowles, in Greenville, Tenn.

istrative efficiency and that he believes existing agencies and departments are prepared to cope with anything that develops, under any conditions.

Mr. Truman referred to the numerous governmental reorganization measures he has recommended to Congress, a number of which have been approved.

He said with great emphasis that neither the Korean war nor any foreseeable ramification of that conflict will necessitate creation of an Office of Price Administration or such other superagencies as were set up in World War II.

FBI Nabs Oldest Of Brother Trio In Connection With Ohio Holdup

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10—The FBI in Philadelphia today announced the capture of Joseph Wayne Nolen, 24, as the leader of a brother trio suspected in a $35,000 Ohio bank robbery.

Two other brothers, John, 19, and Ballard, 20, are still being sought for the holdup of the Corryville branch of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co., in Cincinnati July 26.

Arthur Cornelius Jr., special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, said $5480 of the reported loot was recovered with Nolen's arrest, including $3680 found in the bag of a vacuum cleaner in a Philadelphia apartment where Nolen stayed for eight days.

Cornelius said Nolen was arrested Tuesday by Maryland state police for speeding on U.S. Route 1 near Fullerton, north of Baltimore.

A check with the FBI indicated he was one of the three brothers sought in the bank holdup, and he was ordered held in $100,000 bail to await removal to Ohio.

QUESTIONING of Nolen brought out that he left Cincinnati after the holdup and forced his family to accompany him to Dayton where the brothers are wanted for a sporting goods store holdup. From Dayton, the family drove to Philadelphia.

Agents who went to search the Philadelphia apartment last night found his wife, Betty Jane, and their two children, aged two and seven months. They were about to give up the search when they noticed a bulge in the vacuum cleaner bag, which brought forth the money.

The FBI said Mrs. Nolen denied knowledge of the cache, and she was not arrested.

Cornelius said that in Baltimore, FBI agents found $1300 in Nolen's left sock and $500 in his right.

When apprehended, Nolen told police he was on his way to "visit relatives in Indiana." Police said he had two revolvers in the car, and identified one of them as being one of 10 stolen from the Dayton sporting goods store.

2 New Marks For Channel Are Recorded

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 10—Two new marks were chalked up today in the English Channel swimming sweepstakes.

Six Britishers broke the relay record from the English coast to the continent early today. Their time of 11 hours and 10 minutes bettered by one minute the old standard set last year by six Egyptians.

Less than 24 hours earlier, Florence Chadwick, 31-year-old ex-Olympic swimmer from San Diego, Cal., shattered the women's mark by one hour and 14 minutes. She covered the route from Cap Gris Nez to St. Margaret's Bay, Eng., in 13 hours and 20 minutes.

Gertrude Ederle of Brooklyn held the former women's record of 14 hours and 34 minutes which she set on Aug. 6, 1926.

The all-time mark of ten hours and 48 minutes was chalked up in 1926 by Venceslas Spacek of Prague—not counting, of course, Pierre Gilion, who made the treacherous 19-mile crossing last year in a little more than five hours. But then Pierre is a seal.

2 Drunk Drivers Fined $100 Each In Court Here

Two men were fined Wednesday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for drunken driving on South Court street.

Wilmer C. Rhodes, 34, of 537 East Franklin street, was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk. He was arrested by Officer Dixie Watters.

John J. Robinette, 23, of Columbus, also was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving. Robinette was arrested by Officer Rod List.

Another traffic violator, Leo Bentley of Huntington, W. Va., was fined $10 and costs for passing in a non-passing zone. Bentley was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells.

300 Attend Lodge Picnic

About 300 men attended Wednesday's Elks lodge picnic held in the home here.

Lodge officials, totalling up the food bill, said picnickers consumed 150 fried chickens, 65 dozen roasting ears and the usual trimmings.

Guests were present from many surrounding sister lodges.

The affair was held indoors this year to initiate the club's new 30-foot luxury bar, done in blue and gray plastic.

Guard Cable Saves Driver From Plunge

A guard rail cable was credited with saving a California man from a 30-foot plunge down a steep embankment on Route 23 near the Franklin County line Wednesday afternoon.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells said Charley R. Welton, 73, of Los Angeles, apparently fell asleep while driving north at about 3:20 p. m. Wednesday and his car drifted to the left side of the road.

The patrolman said an approaching motorist honked his horn at the aged California driver, apparently waking him up long enough so that he whipped his car to the right to avoid a collision.

The Welton car then swerved back to the left side of the highway, struck a guard rail and was held poised over the steep embankment by the cable.

Welton suffered only minor cuts and abrasions on his right leg in the crash, Wells said.

Atlantic Union Gets Backing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Sen. Kefauver, (D) Tenn., heads a congressional delegation today which will ask the State Department to support the "Atlantic Union" plan as a bulwark against Communist aggression.

The group is scheduled to meet with Secretary of State Acheson, W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's policy coordinator, and John Foster Dulles, GOP adviser to the State Department.

A spokesman for Kefauver said the delegation will recommend that the government revamp its foreign policy in view of the Korean war and back the Atlantic cooperative scheme.

2 Independents File Petitions In State Office

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — The signatures on petitions filed by two independent candidates for state offices are to be checked today by the secretary of state's office to determine their validity and decide whether the candidate's names go on the Nov. 7 election ballot.

Filing petitions as independent candidates yesterday before the deadline were James Metzenbaum, Cleveland attorney and former Democrat state senator, and Raymond J. Jeffreys of Columbus, head of a Columbus lecture bureau.

If his petitions bear the required 30,183 valid signatures, Metzenbaum will oppose Supreme Court Judge William L. Hart of Alliance, the Republican nominee for the Jan. 2 term. There is no Democrat candidate.

Jeffreys, if his petitions are qualified, will be the third man in the congressional race. He has unsuccessfully sought the office three times on the Republican ticket.

The Democrat incumbent, Stephen M. Young of Cleveland was renominated without opposition. George H. Bender of Cleveland, former congressman-at-large, won the GOP nomination in a three-man primary race.

Crop Report Due To Show Food In Good Supply

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The nation today gets another look at the Agriculture Department's farm crop production barometer.

The department's crop reporting board is scheduled to issue its monthly Summer survey of the condition of many crops as of Aug. 1, what advance they have made during the last month and what the harvest prospects are.

The report will show that generally farmers are producing more than adequate crops this year to assure sufficient supplies to carry the nation through a year of war or peace.

It is expected to back up statements by President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan that the nation, in the current war period, is in extremely healthy condition food-wise—much better than the first months of World War II.

The crop report, a tight-mouthed secret until late today, will make a good guess of yield per acre, total production and acreage for harvest for corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grains, and hay among the grain and feed crops.

Production estimates will be made for dry beans and peas, soybeans, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugarcane, sugar beets, broomcorn and hops.

Estimates, too, will be announced for harvests of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, cherries, apricots and pecans and for oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and lemons.

Wins Scored In Southern Korea Area

35th Army Regimental Combat Teams.

The 5th RCT pushed west along the center and the 35th along the northern side of the triple-pronged offensive before they swerved toward each other to linkup at Taeshen-ni and continue the four-day-old advance.

These two Army units closed a ring of steel around large enemy forces caught in their rear.

The 8th Army communique, issued at 9:30 Thursday evening, said the enemy's resistance to the drive on Chinju was put up "mainly by small scattered units." These Red groups, it added, "have harassed" the Americans "with delaying tactics."

Earlier, it was announced the Americans had scored over-all gains averaging three miles along the southern sector Thursday morning, hurling the foe into a full retreat bordering on a complete rout.

The Thursday night 8th Army announcement said that U. S. First Cavalry Division troops erased the enemy's Kaepondong bridgehead on the Naktong's east bank, some 11 miles northwest of Taegu, inland cornerstone of the United Nations front.

A FEW MILES to the north, the communique related, troops of the South Korean First Division were locked in "close combat" with the Reds at the Opyongdong bridgehead, just above Waegwan.

The South Koreans, it was stated, captured three Russian-made North Korean tanks intact and were "trying to retrieve them." Six other enemy tanks, the bulletin said, were knocked out in the Opyongdong vicinity by American planes and artillery as well as South Korean infantry.

Earlier, it had been announced that the South Korean First Division had wiped out the Opyongdong bridgehead, inflicting at least 900 enemy casualties and flinging the surviving Reds back across the Naktong to its west bank.

But the Thursday night communique from Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's 8th Army field headquarters, referring to the Opyongdong bridgehead battle, admitted:

"The enemy infantry still retains potential strength for counter-attack."

Fire Defense Advisory Group Being Set Up

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — Ohio has a fire defense advisory committee today to set up defenses in the event of enemy bombings.

Dr. William E. Warner, chief of Ohio Civil Defense, called the 11 men together yesterday for their first group session. Charles R. Scott, chief of the state fire marshal's fire prevention bureau, was named co-ordinator.

The group discussed communications, manpower, radiation, and the role of various fire-fighting organizations.

The committee is composed of William H. Cheesman, Dayton, Ohio Fire Chiefs' Association president; William K. Zepp, Lindhurst fire chief and Ohio Fire Fighters Association president; J. W. Huntington, Columbus; Robert H. Ferguson, Cleveland, president of the safety committee of the Ohio Manufacturers' Association.

Harry Krieger, Columbus, chief of the town classification section of the Ohio Inspection Bureau; Brig. Gen. Kenneth Cooper, assistant adjutant general; State Fire Marshal Harry J. Callan; Foss H. Gragg, program director of the Ohio Fire Safety Committee; Scott and Dr. Warner.

Ex-Localite Is Medical Aide In Korean War

A former Circleville high school star athlete now is playing a key role with the U. S. Army in Korea.

He is Lt. Robert G. Brown, 27, of Greenville, Tenn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rockford Brown of East High street, a medical officer in the 24th Division.

Brown was the medical officer who reported last week of the atrocities committed against two U. S. soldiers who were tied and killed by North Korean Reds.

The former Circleville man told officials that the two soldiers had been tied, one shot through the back of the head and the other bayoneted to death.

Brown's wife, Nancy, and son are now living in the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Cowles, in Greenville, Tenn.

istrative efficiency and that he believes existing agencies and departments are prepared to cope with anything that develops, under any conditions.

Mr. Truman referred to the numerous governmental reorganization measures he has recommended to Congress, a number of which have been approved.

He said with great emphasis that neither the Korean war nor any foreseeable ramification of that conflict will necessitate creation of an Office of Price Administration or such other superagencies as were set up in World War II.

FBI Nabs Oldest Of Brother Trio In Connection With Ohio Holdup

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10—The FBI in Philadelphia today announced the capture of Joseph Wayne Nolen, 24, as the leader of a brother trio suspected in a $35,000 Ohio bank robbery.

Two other brothers, John, 19, and Ballard, 20, are still being sought for the holdup of the Corryville branch of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co., in Cincinnati July 26.

Arthur Cornelius Jr., special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, said $5480 of the reported loot was recovered with Nolen's arrest, including $3680 found in the bag of a vacuum cleaner in a Philadelphia apartment where Nolen stayed for eight days.

Cornelius said Nolen was arrested Tuesday by Maryland state police for speeding on U.S. Route 1 near Fullerton, north of Baltimore.

A check with the FBI indicated he was one of the three brothers sought in the bank holdup, and he was ordered held in $100,000 bail to await removal to Ohio.

QUESTIONING of Nolen brought out that he left Cincinnati after the holdup and forced his family to accompany him to Dayton where the brothers are wanted for a sporting goods store holdup. From Dayton, the family drove to Philadelphia.

Agents who went to search the Philadelphia apartment last night found his wife, Betty Jane, and their two children, aged two and seven months. They were about to give up the search when they noticed a bulge in the vacuum cleaner bag, which brought forth the money.

The FBI said Mrs. Nolen denied knowledge of the cache, and she was not arrested.

Cornelius said that in Baltimore, FBI agents found $1300 in Nolen's left sock and $500 in his right.

When apprehended, Nolen told police he was on his way to "visit relatives in Indiana." Police said he had two revolvers in the car, and identified one of them as being one of 10 stolen from the Dayton sporting goods store.

2 New Marks For Channel Are Recorded

DOVER, Eng., Aug. 10—Two new marks were chalked up today in the English Channel swimming sweepstakes.

Six Britishers broke the relay record from the English coast to the continent early today. Their time of 11 hours and 10 minutes bettered by one minute the old standard set last year by six Egyptians.

Less than 24 hours earlier, Florence Chadwick, 31-year-old ex-Olympic swimmer from San Diego, Cal., shattered the women's mark by one hour and 14 minutes. She covered the route from Cap Gris Nez to St. Margaret's Bay, Eng., in 13 hours and 20 minutes.

Gertrude Ederle of Brooklyn held the former women's record of 14 hours and 34 minutes which she set on Aug. 6, 1926.

The all-time mark of ten hours and 48 minutes was chalked up in 1926 by Venceslas Spacek of Prague—not counting, of course, Pierre Gilion, who made the treacherous 19-mile crossing last year in a little more than five hours. But then Pierre is a seal.

2 Drunk Drivers Fined $100 Each In Court Here

Two men were fined Wednesday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for drunken driving on South Court street.

Wilmer C. Rhodes, 34, of 537 East Franklin street, was fined $100 and costs for driving while drunk. He was arrested by Officer Dixie Watters.

John J. Robinette, 23, of Columbus, also was fined $100 and costs for drunken driving. Robinette was arrested by Officer Rod List.

Another traffic violator, Leo Bentley of Huntington, W. Va., was fined $10 and costs for passing in a non-passing zone. Bentley was arrested by State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells.

300 Attend Lodge Picnic

About 300 men attended Wednesday's Elks lodge picnic held in the home here.

Lodge officials, totalling up the food bill, said picnickers consumed 150 fried chickens, 65 dozen roasting ears and the usual trimmings.

Guests were present from many surrounding sister lodges.

The affair was held indoors this year to initiate the club's new 30-foot luxury bar, done in blue and gray plastic.

Guard Cable Saves Driver From Plunge

A guard rail cable was credited with saving a California man from a 30-foot plunge down a steep embankment on Route 23 near the Franklin County line Wednesday afternoon.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells said Charley R. Welton, 73, of Los Angeles, apparently fell asleep while driving north at about 3:20 p. m. Wednesday and his car drifted to the left side of the road.

The patrolman said an approaching motorist honked his horn at the aged California driver, apparently waking him up long enough so that he whipped his car to the right to avoid a collision.

The Welton car then swerved back to the left side of the highway, struck a guard rail and was held poised over the steep embankment by the cable.

Welton suffered only minor cuts and abrasions on his right leg in the crash, Wells said.

Atlantic Union Gets Backing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Sen. Kefauver, (D) Tenn., heads a congressional delegation today which will ask the State Department to support the "Atlantic Union" plan as a bulwark against Communist aggression.

The group is scheduled to meet with Secretary of State Acheson, W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's policy coordinator, and John Foster Dulles, GOP adviser to the State Department.

A spokesman for Kefauver said the delegation will recommend that the government revamp its foreign policy in view of the Korean war and back the Atlantic cooperative scheme.

Wash Machine Said Stolen

Pickaway County lawmen Thursday were searching for an enterprising thief who may be planning to open a laundry.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said Nancy Dummitt of Main street in Ashville told him that someone had broken into her home Wednesday night and carted off a washing machine.

RUSSELL BALTHASER

Russell G. Balthaser, 63, Ashville Route 2 farmer, died at noon Wednesday in Mercy hospital, Columbus, after an illness of one week.

Mr. Balthaser was born July 16, 1887, in East Ringgold, son of Peter and Effie Griffin Balthaser. The mother survives.

Also surviving him are his widow, Alice Payne Balthaser; two sons, Robert of Columbus and E. Donald of Ashville Route 2; four sisters, Mrs. Frank Harsh of Hiram, Mrs. Ben Cook of Sharon, Pa., Mrs. Charles Seddon of Columbus and Mrs. Adele Buckingham of Cleveland; a brother, Fred, of Columbus; and three grandchildren.

Mr. Balthaser was a member of Hedges Chapel church, Ashville Knights of Pythias, Nebraska Grange and was a Walnut Township trustee. He formerly had been a member of the Walnut Township board of education for 13 years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in Hedges Chapel church with the Rev. A. B. Albertson officiating. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery by direction of Bastian Funeral Home of Ashville.

Friends may call in the residence.

2 Independents File Petitions In State Office

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — The signatures on petitions filed by two independent candidates for state offices are to be checked today by the secretary of state's office to determine their validity and decide whether the candidate's names go on the Nov. 7 election ballot.

Filing petitions as independent candidates yesterday before the deadline were James Metzenbaum, Cleveland attorney and former Democrat state senator, and Raymond J. Jeffreys of Columbus, head of a Columbus lecture bureau.

If his petitions bear the required 30,183 valid signatures, Metzenbaum will oppose Supreme Court Judge William L. Hart of Alliance, the Republican nominee for the Jan. 2 term. There is no Democrat candidate.

Jeffreys, if his petitions are qualified, will be the third man in the congressional race. He has unsuccessfully sought the office three times on the Republican ticket.

The Democrat incumbent, Stephen M. Young of Cleveland was renominated without opposition. George H. Bender of Cleveland, former congressman-at-large, won the GOP nomination in a three-man primary race.

Crop Report Due To Show Food In Good Supply

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The nation today gets another look at the Agriculture Department's farm crop production barometer.

The department's crop reporting board is scheduled to issue its monthly Summer survey of the condition of many crops as of Aug. 1, what advance they have made during the last month and what the harvest prospects are.

The report will show that generally farmers are producing more than adequate crops this year to assure sufficient supplies to carry the nation through a year of war or peace.

It is expected to back up statements by President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan that the nation, in the current war period, is in extremely healthy condition food-wise—much better than the first months of World War II.

The crop report, a tight-mouthed secret until late today, will make a good guess of yield per acre, total production and acreage for harvest for corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grains, and hay among the grain and feed crops.

Production estimates will be made for dry beans and peas, soybeans, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugarcane, sugar beets, broomcorn and hops.

Estimates, too, will be announced for harvests of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, cherries, apricots and pecans and for oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and lemons.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

For as long as I can remember, my Uncle Charlie has been complaining of good health—not his own, mind you, but my Aunt Frieda's. For 40 winters, to hear him tell it, he has been an easy mark for colds, catarrhs and rheumatic pains, while his wife has never developed so much as a sniffle.

Last February, when I dropped in to see them at their Allen Street flat, Charlie was in bed, runny-eyed and carminenosed.

"What gives!" I asked.

"What always gives?" said my uncle. "Your aunt loses the flu, I find it. She's got a constitutional like a horse."

Frieda was in the kitchen warming up a plaster.

"Like a pastrami sandwich she treats me," said Charlie. "I'm all over mustard. Every reasonable woman lays down in bed once in a while. But not her—she won't give me the satisfaction. . . ."

My favorite relatives came to this country around the time Teddy Roosevelt was elected, and the voyage over, according to Charlie, was the roughest in the history of navigation. It took 23 days and even the captain was seasick. Frieda was the only one on board who ate regularly, and she gained an average of a pound a day. When the helmsman took to his bunk—still according to Charlie—it was she who took the wheel.

AS FOR MY UNCLE, he spent the entire trip with his head sticking out of a porthole and, the weather being what it was, it was a miracle he wasn't drowned.

Because of this apparent immunity to disease, Frieda has always been one of the favorite daughters of the East Side, especially when any of the neighbors are ill. For years now, she's been carrying soup and solace to their homes, tending their kids and lecturing family doctors on their therapeutic shortcomings.

"Herself, she don't get sick, but to me she brings back the germs," is the way Charlie explains her.

A few days ago, however, my uncle telephoned and, without bothering to suppress the triumph in his voice, said, "Frieda is flat like a pancake. She's got a flu, with complications yet."

"I'll send my doctor down," I said, "and I'll be around in the morning."

But when I walked up the three flights to their apartment the following day, the door was opened by an obviously in-the-pink Frieda.

"What are you doing out of bed?"

My aunt motioned me in, and in the bedroom, propped up on pillows as usual, was Charlie.

"What happened?"

"What should happen?" said Frieda. "Your uncle got overheated running up and down the stairs like a chicken."

"I thought you had the flu."

"Oh, that," said Frieda. "I fixed it with a guggle-muggle."

For the benefit of the uninitiate, a "guggle-muggle" is an old East Side remedy composed of warm milk, egg, honey, cinnamon and whisky.

"Wish your uncle happy returns," said Frieda. "It's his birthday."

"Yea, it's my birthday," groaned Charlie, "and for a present she gave me her flu."

Housewife Seeks Return Of Mate

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—A Chicago housewife whose 240-pound husband drove away with the 95-pound wife of a neighbor promised today to look after the neighbor's 10-year-old daughter "at least until things are cleared up."

Mrs. Emily Eustice and Lucian Livings yesterday asked police to look for Thomas Eustice, 48, and Mrs. Helen Livings, 34.

The two couples have been "good friends and neighbors" for four years, the husband reported.

But neither he nor Mrs. Eustice would predict what their attitudes will be if their spouses return.

Personal
To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Another Warship Tagged As Gift For Neighbors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Another United States warship was earmarked today for European delivery under America's "accelerating" military aid program to strengthen defenses of the Western world against Communism.

The Navy announced the Submarine Rescue Ship Bluebird will be officially turned over to Turkey at the New London, Conn., naval base Aug. 15.

Next Saturday, the Navy will hand over two escort vessels, the Samuel S. Miles and the Riddle, to France at the Philadelphia naval shipyard.

With almost $2.5 billion already granted by Congress and another $4 billion in the works, officials reported that the aid operation is beginning to hit full stride.

Approximately 200,000 tons of arms and equipment were on the way to North Atlantic nations between last March and the end of July. Officials predicted shipments will jump two to three times that amount in the near future.

Half the population of the United States has changed living quarters since 1940.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

For as long as I can remember, my Uncle Charlie has been complaining of good health—not his own, mind you, but my Aunt Frieda's. For 40 winters, to hear him tell it, he has been an easy mark for colds, catarrhs and rheumatic pains, while his wife has never developed so much as a sniffle.

Last February, when I dropped in to see them at their Allen Street flat, Charlie was in bed, runny-eyed and carmine-nosed.

"What gives!" I asked.

"What always gives?" said my uncle. "Your aunt loses the flu, I find it. She's got a constitutional like a horse."

Frieda was in the kitchen warming up a plaster.

"Like a pastrami sandwich she treats me," said Charlie. "I'm all over mustard. Every reasonable woman lays down in bed once in a while. But not her—she won't give me the satisfaction. . . ."

My favorite relatives came to this country around the time Teddy Roosevelt was elected, and the voyage over, according to Charlie, was the roughest in the history of navigation. It took 23 days and even the captain was seasick. Frieda was the only one on board who ate regularly, and she gained an average of a pound a day. When the helmsman took to his bunk—still according to Charlie—it was she who took the wheel.

AS FOR MY UNCLE, he spent the entire trip with his head sticking out of a porthole and, the weather being what it was, it was a miracle he wasn't drowned.

Because of this apparent immunity to disease, Frieda has always been one of the favorite daughters of the East Side, especially when any of the neighbors are ill. For years now, she's been carrying soup and solace to their homes, tending their kids and lecturing family doctors on their therapeutic shortcomings.

"Herself, she don't get sick, but to me she brings back the germs," is the way Charlie explains her.

A few days ago, however, my uncle telephoned and, without bothering to suppress the triumph in his voice, said, "Frieda is flat like a pancake. She's got a flu, with complications yet."

"I'll send my doctor down," I said, "and I'll be around in the morning."

But when I walked up the three flights to their apartment the following day, the door was opened by an obviously in-the-pink Frieda.

"What are you doing out of bed?"

My aunt motioned me in, and in the bedroom, propped up on pillows as usual, was Charlie.

"What happened?"

"What should happen?" said Frieda. "Your uncle got overheated running up and down the stairs like a chicken."

"I thought you had the flu."

"Oh, that," said Frieda. "I fixed it with a guggle-muggle."

For the benefit of the uninitiate, a "guggle-muggle" is an old East Side remedy composed of warm milk, egg, honey, cinnamon and whisky.

"Wish your uncle happy returns," said Frieda. "It's his birthday."

Housewife Seeks Return Of Mate

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—A Chicago housewife whose 240-pound husband drove away with the 95-pound wife of a neighbor promised today to look after the neighbor's 10-year-old daughter "at least until things are cleared up."

Mrs. Emily Eustice and Lucian Livings yesterday asked police to look for Thomas Eustice, 48, and Mrs. Helen Livings, 34. The two couples have been "good friends and neighbors" for four years, the husband reported.

But neither he nor Mrs. Eustice would predict what their attitudes will be if their spouses return.

Personal
To Women With Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Another Warship Tagged As Gift For Neighbors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Another United States warship was earmarked today for European delivery under America's "accelerating" military aid program to strengthen defenses of the Western world against Communism.

The Navy announced the Submarine Rescue Ship Bluebird will be officially turned over to Turkey at the New London, Conn., naval base Aug. 15.

Next Saturday, the Navy will hand over two escort vessels, the Samuel S. Miles and the Riddle, to France at the Philadelphia naval shipyard.

With almost $2.5 billion already granted by Congress and another $4 billion in the works, officials reported that the aid operation is beginning to hit full stride.

Approximately 200,000 tons of arms and equipment were on the way to North Atlantic nations between last March and the end of July. Officials predicted shipments will jump two to three times that amount in the near future.

Half the population of the United States has changed living quarters since 1940.

NO 'THEE'S AND THOU'S'

New Psalms Translation Has Modern Vocabulary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—American Catholic Biblical experts today announced publication of a new translation of the book of Psalms, presenting the ancient religious songs in a 20th Century vocabulary without sacrifice of their majestic beauty.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine pointed out that this is the second major step of a project begun by direction of Pope Pius XII in 1943 to achieve a more readable edition of the Old Testament.

Startling changes in tense and simplicity of style have been brought about by direct translation from original languages of the Psalms rather than from the Latin verions of the original, the method used in past centuries.

The new translation marks the first such change in the poetic form of the Psalms since the 17th Century. The "thee's" and "thou's" are now "you." "Hath" is "has" and 'hast" is have."

Latin headings have been eliminated, and centered titles are used to increase readability.

AS AN EXAMPLE of the drastic revision, the "Good Shepherd Psalm" now appears closer to the Protestant than to the traditional Catholic Douay version. Formerly, the beloved psalm began:

"The Lord ruleth me: And I
Shall want nothing.
2 He hath set me in a place of pasture.
He hath brought me up, on the water of refreshment:
3 He hath converted my soul. ."
Now it is rendered:
"The lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.
In verdant pastures He gives me
repose;
Beside restful waters He leads me;
He refreshes my soul. . . ."

Thirty translators from the Catholic Biblical Association's roster of 250 priests are engaged in the Old Testament translation project. The new edition of the book of Genesis was published in 1948, and it is expected that the complete translation of the Old Testament will be accomplished by 1955.

Work on the 301-page book of Psalms was started in 1944, when Father Eberhard Olinger and other Benedictine monks of St. Meinrad Abbey in Indiana began translations of the 150 Psalms and 17 canticles.

The monks worked from a critical Hebrew text and from other Hebrew readings and sources estimated to date back to 200 BC.

Completed in three years, the manuscript since has undergone revision under a rigid system of checks and balances assuring accuracy of translation and style and consistency of expression.

The new book, printed by the St. Anthony Guild Press in Paterson, N. J., bears the imprimatur of Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Kansas City, chairman of the episcopal committee of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Two copies of the new version, bound in white leather and stamped with the papal coat of arms, will be presented to Pope Pius in the name of the Catholic Biblical Association of America in a special audience next month.

MOST OF THE Psalms were composed by King David, 1000 BC. Evidence indicates composition of a few of them after the Babylonian exile, 536 BC.

Cast in poetic form, many were set to music and used extensively in religious services in the temple in Jerusalem and in the synagogues. They quickly became the private and public prayer of the Jewish people and were handed down through the centuries.

Churchmen point out that the Psalms were "the prayerbook of Christ himself, of the apostles, and all early Christians." They formed a large part of early Catholic services in connection with mass and communion.

Mother Killed In Auto Crash

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—A 28-year-old Worthington mother was killed and four others were injured late yesterday in an auto accident near here.

Mrs. Betty Jane Smith, the mother of two children, died of a skull fracture. She was riding in an auto driven by her husband, Earl B. Smith, 35, who suffered fractured ribs and cuts and bruises.

The victim's two sons, Dennis Earl, 7, and Raymond D. Smith, 3, suffered minor injuries. The driver of the other car involved in the mishap, David N. Corner, 19, also of Columbus, was treated for minor injuries.

Lass, 7, Loses Foot To Mower

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 10 — Seven-year-old Betty Joan Lyons of Freeport, is in "fair" condition today in a Cambridge hospital where she was taken after her right foot was amputated by a mowing machine.

The little girl tried to jump over the cuttter bar of the moving mowing machine.

Volume Higher, Prices Steady In Stock Sale

Prices held steady as volume increased substantially Wednesday in the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association auctions.

Volume rose to 827 head this week, an increase of 16 over last week's market total of 661.

Prices, however, remained nearly the same in almost every category, a few changes showing up in the lesser grades.

Sheep and lamb market increased considerably in volume during Wednesday's bartering, rising to a total of 134 head from last week's report of 'light" sales.

Cattle sales increased by 38 head to a total of 169 this week as compared to a market of only 131 last Wednesday; hog sales remained the same at 450 head; and calf receipts dropped to 74 this week, a decrease of six head compared to last week's market.

Complete report of this week's auction follows:

Cleveland Adds 134 New Firemen

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10—Cleveland's fire department will reach its all-time peak Sept. 1 when 134 additional firemen are added to the force.

Safety Director Alvin J. Sutton, who made the announcement, said that the added personnel will more than compensate for the loss of man-hours which will result from the reduction of the firemen's work week from 72 hours to 60 on that date.

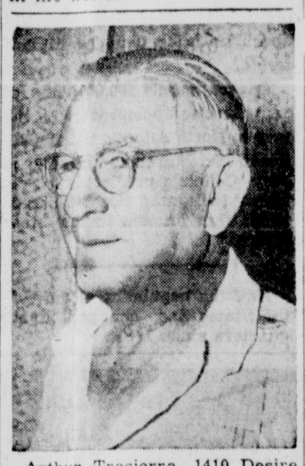
Sentimental Visit Cause Of Death

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—Peter Cirzan, 86, moved long ago from the home where he and his wife lived before her death in 1936.

But each week he returned for a sentimental visit to the little house which he still owned.

During a visit on July 15 he slipped and fell. He died of his injuries yesterday in St. Mary's hospital.

China, with 340,000 square miles, has the greatest coal area in the world.



Arthur Trasierra, 1410 Desire St., sexton at the St. Vincent DePaul Cemetery in New Orleans, La., thinks a sick man is a mighty poor man but a man in the pink of health is wealthy as can be. Mr. Trasierra says he is worth plenty, thanks to HADACOL, for he learned that his system lacked Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mr. Trasierra's own statement: "I had been sick for some time. The trouble mainly was in my stomach. I was unable to eat any fried food at all. I was very nervous and it affected my work. Now that I have been taking HADACOL my stomach is in tip top condition and my nerves are just fine. My appetite has improved, too, and fried foods are on our menu at least several times a week. That's because I have been taking HADACOL—and you can bet your life I won't stop taking HADACOL. I never tire of telling my friends how wonderful HADACOL is."

What HADACOL Does

HADACOL helps to build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails. Countless thousands whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin are benefiting from HADACOL . . . even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients.

Give HADACOL a chance to help you. Refuse substitutes. Don't let anyone tell you something else is "just as good." Insist on genuine HADACOL. You risk nothing because HADACOL is sold only on a strict money-back guarantee. You'll feel better with the first few bottles you take or your money will be refunded. Trial Size only $1.25, Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

New Psalms Translation Has Modern Vocabulary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—American Catholic Biblical experts today announced publication of a new translation of the book of Psalms, presenting the ancient religious songs in a 20th Century vocabulary without sacrifice of their majestic beauty.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine pointed out that this is the second major step of a project begun by direction of Pope Pius XII in 1943 to achieve a more readable edition of the Old Testament.

Startling changes in tense and simplicity of style have been brought about by direct translation from original languages of the Psalms rather than from the Latin verions of the original, the method used in past centuries.

The new translation marks the first such change in the poetic form of the Psalms since the 17th Century. The "thee's" and "thou's" are now "you." "Hath" is "has" and 'hast" is have."

Latin headings have been eliminated, and centered titles are used to increase readability.

AS AN EXAMPLE of the drastic revision, the "Good Shepherd Psalm" now appears closer to the Protestant than to the traditional Catholic Douay version. Formerly, the beloved psalm began:

"The Lord ruleth me: And I
Shall want nothing.
2 He hath set me in a place of
pasture.
He hath brought me up, on the water of refreshment:
3 He hath converted my soul. ."
Now it is rendered:
"The lord is my shepherd: I
shall not want.
In verdant pastures He gives me
repose;
Beside restful waters He leads
me;
He refreshes my soul. . . ."

Thirty translators from the Catholic Biblical Association's roster of 250 priests are engaged in the Old Testament translation project. The new edition of the book of Genesis was published in 1948, and it is expected that the complete translation of the Old Testament will be accomplished by 1955.

Work on the 301-page book of Psalms was started in 1944, when Father Eberhard Olinger and other Benedictine monks of St. Meinrad Abbey in Indiana began translations of the 150 Psalms and 17 canticles.

The monks worked from a critical Hebrew text and from other Hebrew readings and sources estimated to date back to 200 BC.

Completed in three years, the manuscript since has undergone revision under a rigid system of checks and balances assuring accuracy of translation and style and consistency of expression.

The new book, printed by the St. Anthony Guild Press in Paterson, N. J., bears the imprimatur of Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Kansas City, chairman of the episcopal committee of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Two copies of the new version, bound in white leather and stamped with the papal coat of arms, will be presented to Pope Pius in the name of the Catholic Biblical Association of America in a special audience next month.

MOST OF THE Psalms were composed by King David, 1000 BC. Evidence indicates composition of a few of them after the Babylonian exile, 536 BC.

Cast in poetic form, many were set to music and used extensively in religious services in the temple in Jerusalem and in the synagogues. They quickly became the private and public prayer of the Jewish people and were handed down through the centuries.

Churchmen point out that the Psalms were "the prayerbook of Christ himself, of the apostles, and all early Christians." They formed a large part of early Catholic services in connection with mass and communion.

Mother Killed In Auto Crash

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—A 28-year-old Worthington mother was killed and four others were injured late yesterday in an auto accident near here.

Mrs. Betty Jane Smith, the mother of two children, died of a skull fracture. She was riding in an auto driven by her husband, Earl B. Smith, 35, who suffered fractured ribs and cuts and bruises.

The victim's two sons, Dennis Earl, 7, and Raymond D. Smith, 3, suffered minor injuries. The driver of the other car involved in the mishap, David N. Corner, 19, also of Columbus, was treated for minor injuries.

Lass, 7, Loses Foot To Mower

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 10 — Seven-year-old Betty Joan Lyons of Freeport, is in "fair" condition today in a Cambridge hospital where she was taken after her right foot was amputated by a mowing machine.

The little girl tried to jump over the cuttter bar of the moving mowing machine.

Volume Higher, Prices Steady In Stock Sale

Prices held steady as volume increased substantially Wednesday in the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association auctions.

Volume rose to 827 head this week, an increase of 16 over last week's market total of 661.

Prices, however, remained nearly the same in almost every category, a few changes showing up in the lesser grades.

Sheep and lamb market increased considerably in volume during Wednesday's bartering, rising to a total of 134 head from last week's report of 'light" sales.

Cattle sales increased by 38 head to a total of 169 this week as compared to a market of only 131 last Wednesday; hog sales remained the same at 450 head; and calf receipts dropped to 74 this week, a decrease of six head compared to last week's market.

Complete report of this week's auction follows:

CATTLE RECEIPTS — 169 head — Steers and heifers, good 30-31.50; steers and heifers, medium to good 27.50-30; steers and heifers, common to medium 18-27.50; cows, common to good 18-23 cows, canners to comon 14-18; cow and calf 177; bulls 20-24.60.

HOG RECEIPTS — 450 head — Good and choice, 180-200 lbs. 23.50; 200-240 lbs. 23.75; lights, 160-180 lbs. 22.50-22.75; light lights, 140-160 lbs. 18.50-19.50; heavyweights, 240-260 lbs. 23.25; 260-280 lbs. 22.5; 280-300 lbs. 22; 300-350 lbs. 21.25; 350-400 lbs. 20.75; pigs, 100-140 lbs. 16-18.75; Packing Sows, lights, 250-350 lbs. and heavy, 350-500 lbs. 15-21 stags 13.75-18.50; boars 11-11.50.

CALF RECEIPTS—74 head—Good to choice 30-34.75; medium to good 28-30; culls to medium 17-28; By head 12-25.

SHEEP AND LAMB RECEIPTS—134 head—Lambs, fair to choice 26-28.20; lambs, common to fair 2.50-26; ewes, fair to choice 8.50-12.10.

Cleveland Adds 134 New Firemen

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10—Cleveland's fire department will reach its all-time peak Sept. 1 when 134 additional firemen are added to the force.

Safety Director Alvin J. Sutton, who made the announcement, said that the added personnel will more than compensate for the loss of man-hours which will result from the reduction of the firemen's work week from 72 hours to 60 on that date.

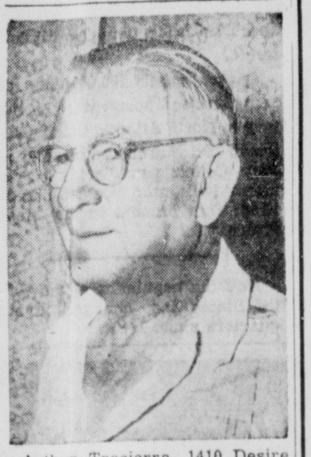
Sentimental Visit Cause Of Death

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—Peter Cirzan, 86, moved long ago from the home where he and his wife lived before her death in 1936.

But each week he returned for a sentimental visit to the little house which he still owned.

During a visit on July 15 he slipped and fell. He died of his injuries yesterday in St. Mary's hospital.

China, with 340,000 square miles, has the greatest coal area in the world.



Arthur Trasierra, 1410 Desire St., sexton at the St. Vincent DePaul Cemetery in New Orleans, La., thinks a sick man is a mighty poor man but a man in the pink of health is wealthy as can be. Mr. Trasierra says he is worth plenty, thanks to HADACOL, for he learned that his system lacked Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin, and Iron which HADACOL contains.

Here is Mr. Trasierra's own statement: "I had been sick for some time. The trouble mainly was in my stomach. I was unable to eat any fried food at all. I was very nervous and it affected my work. Now that I have been taking HADACOL my stomach is in tip top condition and my nerves are just fine. My appetite has improved, too, and fried foods are on our menu at least several times a week. In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Some sort of rearmament for Western Germany of a nature and on a scale that will not arouse fears on the part of the French people is believed again under serious consideration by the Western Powers.

In announcing its own plans to create 15 new divisions as a defense measure with the aid of United States financing, the French government maintained continued opposition to the idea in principle.

But the Communist aggression in Korea has changed a great many fundamental concepts and it seems highly likely that somewhere in the vast measures of preparation now underway there is contained some plan to utilize German manpower.

Properly presented, the idea probably could be made to appeal to the French people.

To begin with, the whole French nation is determined to do all in its power to keep any new war off its own soil, at least from the viewpoint of ground battle.

It is therefore logical that the "armed frontier" should be moved far east of the Rhine.

THIS MEANS one of two things. Either a huge French army and other foreign forces must be maintained in an area that can ill afford to support them or the Germans must be utilized at least as some sort of first line of defense against possible aggression.

The initial step is expected to be creation of a far larger police force than now exists.

This virtually became necessary months ago when the Soviets armed and equipped their "people's police" in a manner far exceeding normal police needs.

The mere size of this force has made it necessary for the United States and other Allied troops to spend much of their time as comparative adjuncts of the West German police.

This is bound to be a distasteful job for American soldiers.

The same does not apply to the U. S. constabulary. This is a fast-driving, free-swinging, highly mobile force, proud of its fine record and trained to a superb degree.

It has done a magnificent job maintaining order in more than one difficult situation and has built up an esprit within its own raks that has few parallels in peacetime.

But it is small and must patrol vast areas. The result is that when trouble threatens such as during the Communist Whitsuntide demonstrations in Berlin, the Army has had to do a police job and hold struggling crowds of civilians behind ropes when it has been rigorously trained for combat operations.

The suggestion has been made that to augment the Allied armies and free them for fighting tasks, Germans could be used for "service troops."

That, of course, would be ruinous for morale.

THE GERMANS know full well what a deleterious effect such an assignment has. The late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel made such use of Italian forces to relieve his Afrikakorps in North Africa. What might have been good soldiers were made to work at menial tasks in what amounted to forced labor.

A solution satisfactory to all might be found in the assimilation of German troops into Allied ranks.

This, however, has its drawbacks as well. It is incongruous to think of any such merger while Germany and the West are still in a nominal state of war and will be until there is an armistice or a peace treaty.

Also once again there is the factor of German pride. The German soldier is traditionally contemptuous even of his allies. It is difficult to imagine a satisfactory German corps without its own leadership and command.

The fact remains, however, that the essential rearmament of Europe is a colossal task. France feels she can produce only 15 additional divisions—perhaps 200 thousand men—a small number indeed when compared with the tremendous resources of Russia.

It is becoming increasingly evident that Western Europe is trying to find some satisfactory means of utilizing German resources, in manpower as well as material. The task will have tremendous complications. But if successful, a Franco-German military pool might comprise a powerful deterrent to Soviet aggression.

26 Nurses Quit TB Sanatorium

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 10—Some 26 nurses at the Mahoning County Tuberculosis Sanatorium here have resigned because of what they termed "an accumulation of unsatisfactory conditions."

The resignations become effective Aug. 21.

Dr. William Newcomer, medical director at the hospital, also resigned yesterday and the board of trustees accepted his resignation, effective Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, other top staff officials were meeting with a committee of nurses in an effort to get them to reconsider their action.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Some sort of rearmament for Western Germany of a nature and on a scale that will not arouse fears on the part of the French people is believed again under serious consideration by the Western Powers.

In announcing its own plans to create 15 new divisions as a defense measure with the aid of United States financing, the French government maintained continued opposition to the idea in principle.

But the Communist aggression in Korea has changed a great many fundamental concepts and it seems highly likely that somewhere in the vast measures of preparation now underway there is contained some plan to utilize German manpower.

Properly presented, the idea probably could be made to appeal to the French people.

To begin with, the whole French nation is determined to do all in its power to keep any new war off its own soil, at least from the viewpoint of ground battle.

It is therefore logical that the "armed frontier" should be moved far east of the Rhine.

THIS MEANS one of two things. Either a huge French army and other foreign forces must be maintained in an area that can ill afford to support them or the Germans must be utilized at least as some sort of first line of defense against possible aggression.

The initial step is expected to be creation of a far larger police force than now exists.

This virtually became necessary months ago when the Soviets armed and equipped their "people's police" in a manner far exceeding normal police needs.

The mere size of this force has made it necessary for the United States and other Allied troops to spend much of their time as comparative adjuncts of the West German police.

This is bound to be a distasteful job for American soldiers.

The same does not apply to the U. S. constabulary. This is a fast-driving, free-swinging, highly mobile force, proud of its fine record and trained to a superb degree.

It has done a magnificent job maintaining order in more than one difficult situation and has built up an esprit within its own raks that has few parallels in peacetime.

But it is small and must patrol vast areas. The result is that when trouble threatens such as during the Communist Whitsuntide demonstrations in Berlin, the Army has had to do a police job and hold struggling crowds of civilians behind ropes when it has been rigorously trained for combat operations.

The suggestion has been made that to augment the Allied armies and free them for fighting tasks, Germans could be used for "service troops."

That, of course, would be ruinous for morale.

THE GERMANS know full well what a deleterious effect such an assignment has. The late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel made such use of Italian forces to relieve his Afrikakorps in North Africa. What might have been good soldiers were made to work at menial tasks in what amounted to forced labor.

A solution satisfactory to all might be found in the assimilation of German troops into Allied ranks.

This, however, has its drawbacks as well. It is incongruous to think of any such merger while Germany and the West are still in a nominal state of war and will be until there is an armistice or a peace treaty.

Also once again there is the factor of German pride. The German soldier is traditionally contemptuous even of his allies. It is difficult to imagine a satisfactory German corps without its own leadership and command.

The fact remains, however, that the essential rearmament of Europe is a colossal task. France feels she can produce only 15 additional divisions—perhaps 200 thousand men—a small number indeed when compared with the tremendous resources of Russia.

It is becoming increasingly evident that Western Europe is trying to find some satisfactory means of utilizing German resources, in manpower as well as material. The task will have tremendous complications. But if successful, a Franco-German military pool might comprise a powerful deterrent to Soviet aggression.

26 Nurses Quit TB Sanatorium

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 10—Some 26 nurses at the Mahoning County Tuberculosis Sanatorium here have resigned because of what they termed "an accumulation of unsatisfactory conditions."

The resignations become effective Aug. 21.

Dr. William Newcomer, medical director at the hospital, also resigned yesterday and the board of trustees accepted his resignation, effective Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, other top staff officials were meeting with a committee of nurses in an effort to get them to reconsider their action.

PRISON FOR BRIDGES

HARRY Bridges, the president of the CIO Longshoremen and Warehousemen unions, is in jail. Federal Judge George Harris ordered him into custody after the Department of Justice termed him "a menace to the nation's security" and asked the court to revoke his $25,000 bail.

Bridges is looked upon by the government as the dangerous alien he has always been, whose Communist activities should be curtailed by imprisonment. This has been intensified by Bridges' attitude towards the Korean situation.

While rightwing members of various local unions up and down the west coast have adopted resolutions supporting the United Nations policy in Korea, Bridges has opposed such action, and continues in his anti-American role.

Bridges has been sentenced to five years in federal prison and stripped of his American citizenship. The Justice Department takes the position he is too dangerous an individual to be abroad during these times of stress.

After long delay the administration has come to a realization that communists in the U. S. are as much a threat to the nation as are those American boys are fighting in Korea. Before the danger of Communism can be eradicated it will be necessary to clean house at home.

THE PHILIPPINES

THERE is seemingly no end to the areas of the world reaching out their hands for American help. Soon now, the U. S. will have to decide how to prevent the rise of a radical if not a red government in the Philippines.

The U. S. has a 20-man commission in the Philippines studying what the country needs. $2,000,000,000 of American money already has been poured into the islands since they gained independence four years ago. They want much more. The currency is on the ragged edge of bad inflation and government operated enterprises are in the red.

The most pressing problem is the Hukbalahaps. These remnants of the tough guerillas who fought the Japs are now communist-led. The aim of their leaders is to overthrow the government and help a red invasion of the Philippines. The communists are already threatening Formosa, only a short plane hop from the Philippines. A real effort, including large military forces, in the Philippines, may be near.

Presumably, unless there is a military crisis, the U. S. will spend a considerable amount of money trying to put the Filipino economy on a stable basis, thus taking from the Huks most of the popular support they are now receiving.

If it comes to a threatened communist invasion, the United States will undoubtedly try to save the independent Philippines from the reds.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

General Douglas MacArthur has to accept, as any commander must, the commitments made by the civilians of his government in the period precedent to actual warfare. In a word, he can by military action undo the errors of the past only at great cost of life and materiel. The most costly error in judgment in our history has been the complex of events in Asia, engineered by the Alger Hiss group in the State Department, which gave China to Soviet Russia.

To understand this, it must be realized that Russia's success and prestige in Asia depend upon her ability to dispose of Nationalist China and to impose Soviet China upon the United Nations. Out of Soviet China, Russia hopes to conquer French Indo-China, Burma and the Philippines. Ultimately this would lead to the collapse of MacArthur's position in Japan and the total elimination of the United States from the continent of Asia.

As a practical military measure, this would make the west coast of the United States our first line of defense. The State Department has taken the position since 1943 (Teheran) that this was inevitable. They therefore abandoned Chiang Kai-shek; separated Korea from the Japan command; conducted a campaign to undermine MacArthur, and gave practically no assistance to Korea and immaterial aid to the Philippines. In spite of decisions of Congress, the State Department went its way.

If the State Department program was correct (which it never was) the Navy was of little avail and therefore it was put in mothballs. If the State Department prevailed (as it did), such an organization as the Marines was of little value, for the next war was to have been an atomic war across the North Pole.

Chiang spoiled the program of Russia and the State Department by refusing to fold up and die. Against him, this government conducted a vile propaganda based upon the corruption of his officials, all of which is nonsense as all Oriental officials may be regarded as corrupt by the rigid standards in vogue in some but not all parts of the United States. The separation between the public and private purse is a fairly recent innovation in Western countries, and is evaded by various devices, even in Kansas City, Mo.

Chiang held on to two things: The island of Formosa and a seat in the United Nations. And as long as he had those, the State Department and Russia could not liquidate the American position in Asia.

For while this country officially abandoned Chiang, nevertheless, through the insistence of MacArthur, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and General A. C. Wedemeyer, to mention only officials, the American people came to realize that Formosa was the key to the Japan-Philippines-Okinawa line. It became a political liability to evacuate that line. All the hubbub between Senator Joe McCarthy and Senator Millard Tydings, involving the self-anointed martyr, Owen Lattimore, was over this question.

The American Library Association has been meeting in Cleveland for the first time in fifty years. A search of old newspapers revealed that in 1900 the hosts, wishing to offer the best entertainment possible, gave the delegates a trolley ride. DIET AND HEALTH

Diet And The Polio Patient

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FEW diseases are more dreaded than poliomyelitis and, as summer, the season of its greatest incidence comes around, parents everywhere worry for fear their children may be stricken by this great killer and crippler.

Recently, a hopeful new advance has been reported which, though it does not prevent polio, may do much to take away its worse terrors. It is a treatment based on the theory that the virus which causes polio cannot grow in the body unless lime or calcium is present and, further, that its poisons are distributed through the body only by being dissolved in fat.

The treatment, therefore, aims at lessening the amount of calcium and vitamin D—the substance which enables the body to use calcium to advantage—in the body.

Low in Calcium

This is partly achieved through use of a diet low in calcium and high in starchy foods.

Since hard water contains calcium salts, only soft water is given to the patient. To further lessen the amount of calcium in the body, a preparation known as sodium acid phosphate is administered three times a day. The patient is also given mineral oil at bedtime each day, as well as a dose immediately upon diagnosis of the condition.

A preparation known as prostigmine is administered by mouth for its stimulating effect on smooth muscle tissue, which makes up so many of the body's important organs.

Phenobarbital is given to quiet the patient, and such drugs as aspirin are administered for the relief of pain and to lower the temperature when necessary.

Injection of Soapsuds

An injection of soapsuds into the lower bowel is used every other day as long as necessary. It has also been found helpful to give the preparation known as benadryl, which is one of the antihistamine drugs. It seems to lessen greatly the amount of mucus in the throat. If a great deal of mucus collects in the throat, it may have to be sucked out.

This treatment was used over a three-year period on 139 patients. More than 70% of them recovered completely or with only slight remaining paralysis. These results were compared with those obtained when other methods of treatment were employed. These latter methods brought about complete recovery in only one-half of the patients. It was also noted that the patients given the mineral oil and low calcuim treatment were able to walk in about one-half the time required by the others.

It seems advisable that this form of treatment of infantile paralysis be given further study to determine its exact merits.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What causes the skin of my hands to be very dry?

Answer. The cause of this condition could not be determined without an examination. A circulatory disturbance or some form of allergy or sensitivity may be responsible. Deficient thyroid secretion may be a contributing cause.

Kiernan's

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Mr. Truman reportedly is working on a message to Congress concerning legislation to cope with Communists, but this is not to be considered an endorsement of Sen. McCarthy.

The rule still is that if any enemies of America are to be denounced it must be by the right parties.

There's no decision yet on whether the President will tour the country this Fall to alert us to the dangers we face or let the campaign run by itself.

Meanwhile, purchase by the Democrats of an eight-story building in Washington indicates that they finally have decided to stay on permanently.

Up 'til now they have been renting quarters and the Republicans have been saying hopefully: "you'll be going soon. Won't you?"

Anyway this takes care of the Democrats' office problems, but the President is still looking for a Democratic House and could also use a Democratic Senate—preferably on a permanent basis.

CHAPTE FORTY-THREE

"DIDN'T he befriend you the day you came back to Tamerlane?" Carradine asked.

Ives glanced up the street; a few men loitered about; to them, he and the colonel must have seemed two men making idle talk. Ives said, "Yes, he bought in when Cory Lund braced me on the street. But that was Stoll's way of winning my confidence; Stoll had to learn why I'd come back. Because I felt obligated to him, I admitted that Tana had written she needed my help in handling you. Tana wanted you to give up your war against the nesters. That war was something Stoll wished; he was sure you would lose and that way he'd see you brought to your knees. He must have feared that I'd have some influence on you because he tried to talk me into leaving. When I refused, he kept up his pretense by loaning me his buggy. And then he set Brule to lie in wait for me. I was to be killed. I wasn't to be saved for something special as you were."

Carradine said, "Then it must have been Stoll who mailed me the half of the hundred dollar bill."

"It must have been. It was a shot in the dark, just as you guessed then; there was little lost if it didn't work. Meanwhile, he'd had Brule shoot Cory; that was to be blamed on me, and that was to have set off trouble between nesters and Hammer. Stoll didn't dream that Benedict would be allowed to take me off Hammer; Stoll was mighty surprised when I came riding into town with the sheriff. Later that night he came around and offered to help me break jail. My escape would have been pegged onto Hammer, thereby arousing the nesters. I did escape, but only so I could patch up Cory Lund and stop the war."

Carradine said, "And I raided town!"

"Stoll must have expected that, too, knowing you. But your raid was too late, so he had to make another play. Brule took a second shot at me. Then you held Benedict hostage. When the time came to exchange Tana for Benedict, Stoll was out at the nester settlement. He must have got word to Brule at once. Elisha Lund was shot by Brule, and Tana was carried off, to be held captive for a couple of days. Stoll was really growing desperate when he planned that one. Lund's death was to have aroused the nesters; Tana's disappearance was to have aroused you. But I held off the nesters because they needed me, and you found Tana. Then you gave up the fight. When I heard that, I reasoned that Stoll had likely heard it, too. Once you stepped on that stage, you'd be gone out of Stoll's life. He'd failed in his scheme to break you by forcing you into a lost cause; the only thing left was for him to kill you."

Carradine said slowly, "That was superb reasoning on your part."

"One by one, I picked up the pieces. Tana gave me the last one today when she told me about Tom Feather's dying. When I realized that Stoll had done the killing in Dodge City, I understood everything. And I knew what you were facing."

He looked across the street. "Your stage's about ready to pull out."

Carradine said, "I won't be taking it. We have a hunt to make, you and I."

Ives shook his head. "You really beat Stoll the moment you decided to call off your war. The greatest service you can do Sombra Range is to climb on that stage. I'd like your gun, if you don't mind. You won't need it where you're going."

Carradine's face was uncompromising until a thought softened it. "I dealt you injustice for many years," he said. "Stoll needs only one bullet, and only one man can send it. I owe something to you, and something to Jim Ives." He produced his gun and passed it to Ives; it was the colonel's real surrender; it was the handing over of his way of life. He sighed. "I'm old," he said. "I'm glad to be done with all of it. Perhaps somewhere in the south there'll be a place for me to sit in the sun."

Ives remembered the language of that sun-drenched land. "Vaya con Dios," he said. "Go with God."

Carradine extended his hand. Ives took the hand; it came to him then that he had known this man all his conscious days; he had been closer to the colonel than he had to any other man, yet not until this last parting had they ever shaken hands.

Carradine said, "Good-bye, Brian."

They walked across the street together; Ives held open the coach's door. The driver frowned impatiently; he spat tobacco juice; his whip cracked. Ives watched the stage careen away; one of the colonel's thin hands emerged from a window and waved. The sunset caught the coach and made a blur of it; the rattle of wheels died; the dust plume settled.

Ives stood aimlessly; he became aware of the colonel's gun in his hand; he frowned at the weapon; he had been trained to heal, and he held a strange instrument now. He thrust the gun into the waistband of his trousers. Dusk fogged the street; Ives suddenly grew wary of shadows. Hoofs rattled, and he looked up to see Cory Lund leaping down from a lathered horse.

Cory said, "Tana told me you were heading here to stave off some sort of big trouble."

Ives talked; he told Cory a very great deal in a very few words. He finished his talk, and Cory frowned. Cory said, "Stoll's likely still in town. There's a few empty shacks up the street. I'll head that way and look into doors. You go the other way. When you get to your end of the street, turn and head back. I'll meet up with you somewhere."

Ives said, "This isn't your game."

Cory smiled; there was no humor in it. "Have you forgot Brule? And Elisha Lund?"

Ives said, "If you run into Rod Benedict, tell him what's up."

Cory nodded. "I'll be seeing you."

Ives turned to the first of the saloons; he shouldered the batwings aside and looked at the few men who were liquoring; Stoll was not here. He came back to the planking and glanced toward the Oriental Cafe, but he judged that Stoll would not be so bold as to be loitering in a public place. Likely Cory's theory concerning the deserted shacks was more nearly correct. Stoll . . .

Ives paced along; he turned toward the wooden awning of another saloon, and Charley came lurching out. This was the first time Ives had seen him since the day of his return to Tamerlane, but Charley knew him. Charley said in a hoarse stage whisper, "Stoll's down in Benedict's jail. Now ain't that a place to hide! In a jail!"

Ives fished a dollar from his picket and passed it to Charley. It jingled against other coins in Charley's pocket, but Ives wasn't to think of that till afterward. He went quick-striding toward the jail; he came into Rod Benedict's office cautiously. Only shadows were here. He moved to the barred cell door and said softly, "Stoll? Marco Stoll?"

Some vast bulk moved in there, and Ives quickly flattened himself against the office wall beside the door. Stoll said wearily, "I'm not armed. I lit out too fast to take the shotgun."

Ives said sharply, "Come out of there!"

Stoll said, "The door's open."

Ives reached and hooked a toe between two of the bars of the door. He tugged, and the door swung open. He got the colonel's gun in his hand, and he lunged into the cell. Stoll was seated on the bunk; Stoll was a black blotch against blackness. Stoll said, "What are you going to do? Shoot me down?"

Here was surprise; Ives had expected a defiant, fighting Stoll; he had expected to run against the courage of the cornered. He walked across to Stoll; he reached down and patted Stoll's clothes for a weapon. Stoll made no move; Stoll might have been a sack of sawdust. Ives said, "I'm going to light a lamp. I want to be able to watch you."

He stepped out into the sheriff's office and fumbled with the lamp on Benedict's desk. He got it burning and fetched it into the cell and placed it on a stand. Stoll looked at him unblinkingly; Stoll was never more like a toad.

1—This French actress and dancer was born in La Pointe de Racquet. She made her first appearance on the stage in Paris, and since has appeared in many productions in her native land. She came to the United States, and, on her return to France, appeared in a number of sensational dances, and danced the Valse Renversant with Maurice Chevalier, with whom she also appeared in a revival of Madame Sans-Gene. Her autobiography was published in 1938. She possessed "the most beautiful legs in the world," which she had insured for one million dollars. Now in her late 70's, she is said to have consented to play an old lady's part in a French film. Who is this remarkable woman?

"Marshall Plan of Ideas" Makes Headway in Senate | Signs Indicate Increasing All Types U. S. Propaganda

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Senators studying proposals for a "Marshall Plan of Ideas" to combat Communist propaganda have been very much impressed by the testimony of such big name witnesses as Generals Eisenhower and Marshall, John Foster Dulles and Bernard Baruch that such a step is necessary.

More money is expected to be provided for the Voice of America and other media to reach behind the Iron Curtain into the minds of people dominated by the Russians.

● CAPITOL HILL—Congressional bigwigs are discussing a recess instead of adjourning sine die so the House and Senate can be recalled quickly in the event of an emergency.

This was the procedure employed during World War II and the early postwar years. Congressional leaders were authorized to call members back to Washington.

Otherwise, if Congress adjourns sine die, it cannot reassemble before the following January unless recalled by the President in a special session.

It is anticipated that the Senate, which is running behind the House, will be able to complete its heavy calendar in time to permit Congress to quit by Aug. 15 or 20.

War or no war, this is an election year and short of an all-out conflict members are going home to campaign.

● CHINA REDS—United States officials are increasingly worried about the possibility that Chinese Communist troops may be thrown against the American forces in South Korea.

Movement of a large Chinese Red army to support the North Korean invasion could force the United States to send thousands of additional men to South Korea.

While reports from the Far East hint that the Chinese Communists haven't given up intentions of ultimately invading Formosa, Washington officials are far more worried about what they may do in Korea. With the United States fleet on hand to give protection, some military experts have ruled out the idea of a Communist attack on Formosa. They point out that American naval superiority in Far Eastern waters could successfully block such an assault.

But the China Reds could move thousands of soldiers over land to the aid of the North Korean aggressors. Such a step might prolong the Korean war for many months and intensify the fighting.

● AMERICAN ALLY—Washington officials are encouraged by Argentina's early promises of support for the United States position in Korea.

Argentina's Promises Encouraging

They hope it means that we'll have a new and powerful ally if drawn into an all-out war.

In World War II, Argentina remained neutral until it was clear the Allies would be victorious.

This time, however, President Peron apparently had decided to quickly cast his lot with the other American states in any future emergency.

Argentina's rôle as an ally is regarded as important because she is the hemisphere's major source for wheat, meat, wool and other commodities vital to supplying troops and civilian populations throughout the western world.

Try, Stop Me

One day in 1898 a fire burned down the house next door to Brentano's Book Store (then located in Union Square) and every volume in stock was destroyed. The water in the basement was six feet deep. There wasn't such a magnificent clean-out of old stock in the book business again until twenty-six years later when the Boni and Liveright stockroom went up in flames. Even that occasion fell short, for the fire department arrived just in time to save 11,000 copies of Hendrik Van Loon's Story of the Bible, despite the barbed wire and sandbags loyal employes put up to impede the fire fighters' progress.

Brentano's rebuilt—bigger and better than ever—and Admiral Dewey unwittingly assisted in the opening ceremonies of the new store. The hero of Manila was virtually the Tyrone Power of his day, and his arrival at Brentano's was attended by the autograph hunters of 1901 en masse. Arthur Brentano spirited the Admiral out through a back alley.

In 1907 Brentano's moved to Fifth Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street. Shucks, that was only yesterday! Even I can remember the wonderful store they had down there, with the originals of all the magazine covers in the side-street windows, and the huge pile of periodicals from all over the world in the basement. It was into this store that Theodore Roosevelt came one day and ordered the pigskin library he took to Africa.

PRISON FOR BRIDGES

HARRY Bridges, the president of the CIO Longshoremen and Warehousemen unions, is in jail. Federal Judge George Harris ordered him into custody after the Department of Justice termed him "a menace to the nation's security" and asked the court to revoke his $25,000 bail.

Bridges is looked upon by the government as the dangerous alien he has always been, whose Communist activities should be curtailed by imprisonment. This has been intensified by Bridges' attitude towards the Korean situation.

While rightwing members of various local unions up and down the west coast have adopted resolutions supporting the United Nations policy in Korea, Bridges has opposed such action, and continues in his anti-American role.

Bridges has been sentenced to five years in federal prison and stripped of his American citizenship. The Justice Department takes the position he is too dangerous an individual to be abroad during these times of stress.

After long delay the administration has come to a realization that communists in the U. S. are as much a threat to the nation as are those American boys are fighting in Korea. Before the danger of Communism can be eradicated it will be necessary to clean house at home.

THE PHILIPPINES

THERE is seemingly no end to the areas of the world reaching out their hands for American help. Soon now, the U. S. will have to decide how to prevent the rise of a radical if not a red government in the Philippines.

The U. S. has a 20-man commission in the Philippines studying what the country needs. $2,000,000,000 of American money already has been poured into the islands since they gained independence four years ago. They want much more. The currency is on the ragged edge of bad inflation and government operated enterprises are in the red.

The most pressing problem is the Hukbalahaps. These remnants of the tough guerillas who fought the Japs are now communist-led. The aim of their leaders is to overthrow the government and help a red invasion of the Philippines. The communists are already threatening Formosa, only a short plane hop from the Philippines. A real effort, including large military forces, in the Philippines, may be near.

Presumably, unless there is a military crisis, the U. S. will spend a considerable amount of money trying to put the Filipino economy on a stable basis, thus taking from the Huks most of the popular support they are now receiving.

If it comes to a threatened communist invasion, the United States will undoubtedly try to save the independent Philippines from the reds.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

General Douglas MacArthur has to accept, as any commander must, the commitments made by the civilians of his government in the period precedent to actual warfare. In a word, he can by military action undo the errors of the past only at great cost of life and materiel. The most costly error in judgment in our history has been the complex of events in Asia, engineered by the Alger Hiss group in the State Department, which gave China to Soviet Russia.

To understand this, it must be realized that Russia's success and prestige in Asia depend upon her ability to dispose of Nationalist China and to impose Soviet China upon the United Nations. Out of Soviet China, Russia hopes to conquer French Indo-China, Burma and the Philippines. Ultimately this would lead to the collapse of MacArthur's position in Japan and the total elimination of the United States from the continent of Asia.

As a practical military measure, this would make the west coast of the United States our first line of defense. The State Department has taken the position since 1943 (Teheran) that this was inevitable. They therefore abandoned Chiang Kai-shek; separated Korea from the Japan command; conducted a campaign to undermine MacArthur, and gave practically no assistance to Korea and immaterial aid to the Philippines. In spite of decisions of Congress, the State Department went its way.

If the State Department program was correct (which it never was) the Navy was of little avail and therefore it was put in mothballs. If the State Department prevailed (as it did), such an organization as the Marines was of little value, for the next war was to have been an atomic war across the North Pole.

Chiang spoiled the program of Russia and the State Department by refusing to fold up and die. Against him, this government conducted a vile propaganda based upon the corruption of his officials, all of which is nonsense as all Oriental officials may be regarded as corrupt by the rigid standards in vogue in some but not all parts of the United States. The separation between the public and private purse is a fairly recent innovation in Western countries, and is evaded by various devices, even in Kansas City, Mo.

Chiang held on to two things: The island of Formosa and a seat in the United Nations. And as long as he had those, the State Department and Russia could not liquidate the American position in Asia.

For while this country officially abandoned Chiang, nevertheless, through the insistence of MacArthur, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and General A. C. Wedemeyer, to mention only officials, the American people came to realize that Formosa was the key to the Japan-Philippines-Okinawa line. It became a political liability to evacuate that line. All the hubbub between Senator Joe McCarthy and Senator Millard Tydings, involving the self-anointed martyr, Owen Lattimore, was over this question.

DIET AND HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FEW diseases are more dreaded than poliomyelitis and, as summer, the season of its greatest incidence comes around, parents everywhere worry for fear their children may be stricken by this great killer and crippler.

Recently, a hopeful new advance has been reported which, though it does not prevent polio, may do much to take away its worse terrors. It is a treatment based on the theory that the virus which causes polio cannot grow in the body unless lime or calcium is present and, further, that its poisons are distributed through the body only by being dissolved in fat.

The treatment, therefore, aims at lessening the amount of calcium and vitamin D—the substance which enables the body to use calcium to advantage—in the body.

Low in Calcium

This is partly achieved through use of a diet low in calcium and high in starchy foods.

Since hard water contains calcium salts, only soft water is given to the patient. To further lessen the amount of calcium in the body, a preparation known as sodium acid phosphate is administered three times a day. The patient is also given mineral oil at bedtime each day, as well as a dose immediately upon diagnosis of the condition.

A preparation known as prostigmine is administered by mouth for its stimulating effect on smooth muscle tissue, which makes up so many of the body's important organs.

Phenobarbital is given to quiet the patient, and such drugs as aspirin are administered for the relief of pain and to lower the temperature when necessary.

Injection of Soapsuds

An injection of soapsuds into the lower bowel is used every other day as long as necessary. It has also been found helpful to give the preparation known as benadryl, which is one of the antihistamine drugs. It seems to lessen greatly the amount of mucus in the throat. If a great deal of mucus collects in the throat, it may have to be sucked out.

This treatment was used over a three-year period on 139 patients. More than 70% of them recovered completely or with only slight remaining paralysis. These results were compared with those obtained when other methods of treatment were employed. These latter methods brought about complete recovery in only one-half of the patients. It was also noted that the patients given the mineral oil and low calcuim treatment were able to walk in about one-half the time required by the others.

It seems advisable that this form of treatment of infantile paralysis be given further study to determine its exact merits.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What causes the skin of my hands to be very dry?

Answer. The cause of this condition could not be determined without an examination. A circulatory disturbance or some form of allergy or sensitivity may be responsible. Deficient thyroid secretion may be a contributing cause.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Mr. Truman reportedly is working on a message to Congress concerning legislation to cope with Communists, but this is not to be considered an endorsement of Sen. McCarthy.

The rule still is that if any enemies of America are to be denounced it must be by the right parties.

There's no decision yet on whether the President will tour the country this Fall to alert us to the dangers we face or let the campaign run by itself.

Meanwhile, purchase by the Democrats of an eight-story building in Washington indicates that they finally have decided to stay on permanently.

Up 'til now they have been renting quarters and the Republicans have been saying hopefully: "you'll be going soon. Won't you?"

Anyway this takes care of the Democrats' office problems, but the President is still looking for a Democratic House and could also use a Democratic Senate—preferably on a permanent basis.

CHAPTE FORTY-THREE

"DIDN'T he befriend you the day you came back to Tamerlane?" Carradine asked.

Ives glanced up the street; a few men loitered about; to them, he and the colonel must have seemed two men making idle talk. Ives said, "Yes, he bought in when Cory Lund braced me on the street. But that was Stoll's way of winning my confidence; Stoll had to learn why I'd come back. Because I felt obligated to him, I admitted that Tana had written she needed my help in handling you. Tana wanted you to give up your war against the nesters. That war was something Stoll wished; he was sure you would lose and that way he'd see you brought to your knees. He must have feared that I'd have some influence on you because he tried to talk me into leaving. When I refused, he kept up his pretense by loaning me his buggy. And then he set Brule to lie in wait for me. I was to be killed. I wasn't to be saved for something special as you were."

Carradine said, "Then it must have been Stoll who mailed me the half of the hundred dollar bill."

"It must have been. It was a shot in the dark, just as you guessed then; there was little lost if it didn't work. Meanwhile, he'd had Brule shoot Cory; that was to be blamed on me, and that was to have set off trouble between nesters and Hammer. Stoll didn't dream that Benedict would be allowed to take me off Hammer; Stoll was mighty surprised when I came riding into town with the sheriff. Later that night he came around and offered to help me break jail. My escape would have been pegged onto Hammer, thereby arousing the nesters. I did escape, but only so I could patch up Cory Lund and stop the war."

Carradine said, "And I raided town!"

"Stoll must have expected that, too, knowing you. But your raid was too late, so he had to make another play. Brule took a second shot at me. Then you held Benedict hostage. When the time came to exchange Tana for Benedict, Stoll was out at the nester settlement. He must have got word to Brule at once. Elisha Lund was shot by Brule, and Tana was carried off, to be held captive for a couple of days. Stoll was really growing desperate when he planned that one. Lund's death was to have aroused the nesters; Tana's disappearance was to have aroused you. But I held off the nesters because they needed me, and you found Tana. Then you gave up the fight. When I heard that, I reasoned that Stoll had likely heard it, too. Once you stepped on that stage, you'd be gone out of Stoll's life. He'd failed in his scheme to break you by forcing you into a lost cause; the only thing left was for him to kill you."

Carradine said slowly, "That was superb reasoning on your part."

"One by one, I picked up the pieces. Tana gave me the last one today when she told me about Tom Feather's dying. When I realized that Stoll had done the killing in Dodge City, I understood everything. And I knew what you were facing."

He looked across the street. "Your stage's about ready to pull out."

Carradine said, "I won't be taking it. We have a hunt to make, you and I."

Ives shook his head. "You really beat Stoll the moment you decided to call off your war. The greatest service you can do Sombra Range is to climb on that stage. I'd like your gun, if you don't mind. You won't need it where you're going."

Carradine's face was uncompromising until a thought softened it. "I dealt you injustice for many years," he said. "Stoll needs only one bullet, and only one man can send it. I owe something to you, and something to Jim Ives." He produced his gun and passed it to Ives; it was the colonel's real surrender; it was the handing over of his way of life. He sighed. "I'm old," he said. "I'm glad to be done with all of it. Perhaps somewhere in the south there'll be a place for me to sit in the sun."

Ives remembered the language of that sun-drenched land. "Vaya con Dios," he said. "Go with God."

Carradine extended his hand. Ives took the hand; it came to him then that he had known this man all his conscious days; he had been closer to the colonel than he had to any other man, yet not until this last parting had they ever shaken hands.

Carradine said, "Good-bye, Brian."

They walked across the street together; Ives held open the coach's door. The driver frowned impatiently; he spat tobacco juice; his whip cracked. Ives watched the stage careen away; one of the colonel's thin hands emerged from a window and waved. The sunset caught the coach and made a blur of it; the rattle of wheels died; the dust plume settled.

Ives stood aimlessly; he became aware of the colonel's gun in his hand; he frowned at the weapon; he had been trained to heal, and he held a strange instrument now. He thrust the gun into the waistband of his trousers. Dusk fogged the street; Ives suddenly grew wary of shadows. Hoofs rattled, and he looked up to see Cory Lund leaping down from a lathered horse.

Cory said, "Tana told me you were heading here to stave off some sort of big trouble."

Ives talked; he told Cory a very great deal in a very few words. He finished his talk, and Cory frowned. Cory said, "Stoll's likely still in town. There's a few empty shacks up the street. I'll head that way and look into doors. You go the other way. When you get to your end of the street, turn and head back. I'll meet up with you somewhere."

Ives said, "This isn't your game."

Cory smiled; there was no humor in it. "Have you forgot Brule? And Elisha Lund?"

Ives said, "If you run into Rod Benedict, tell him what's up."

Cory nodded. "I'll be seeing you."

Ives turned to the first of the saloons; he shouldered the batwings aside and looked at the few men who were liquoring; Stoll was not here. He came back to the planking and glanced toward the Oriental Cafe, but he judged that Stoll would not be so bold as to be loitering in a public place. Likely Cory's theory concerning the deserted shacks was more nearly correct. Stoll . . .

Ives paced along; he turned toward the wooden awning of another saloon, and Charley came lurching out. This was the first time Ives had seen him since the day of his return to Tamerlane, but Charley knew him. Charley said in a hoarse stage whisper, "Stoll's down in Benedict's jail. Now ain't that a place to hide! In a jail!"

Ives fished a dollar from his picket and passed it to Charley. It jingled against other coins in Charley's pocket, but Ives wasn't to think of that till afterward. He went quick-striding toward the jail; he came into Rod Benedict's office cautiously. Only shadows were here. He moved to the barred cell door and said softly, "Stoll? Marco Stoll?"

Some vast bulk moved in there, and Ives quickly flattened himself against the office wall beside the door. Stoll said wearily, "I'm not armed. I lit out too fast to take the shotgun."

Ives said sharply, "Come out of there!"

Stoll said, "The door's open."

Ives reached and hooked a toe between two of the bars of the door. He tugged, and the door swung open. He got the colonel's gun in his hand, and he lunged into the cell. Stoll was seated on the bunk; Stoll was a black blotch against blackness. Stoll said, "What are you going to do? Shoot me down?"

Here was surprise; Ives had expected a defiant, fighting Stoll; he had expected to run against the courage of the cornered. He walked across to Stoll; he reached down and patted Stoll's clothes for a weapon. Stoll made no move; Stoll might have been a sack of sawdust. Ives said, "I'm going to light a lamp. I want to be able to watch you."

He stepped out into the sheriff's office and fumbled with the lamp on Benedict's desk. He got it burning and fetched it into the cell and placed it on a stand. Stoll looked at him unblinkingly; Stoll was never more like a toad.

The hero of Manila was virtually the Tyrone Power of his day, and his arrival at Brentano's was attended by the autograph hunters of 1901 en masse. Arthur Brentano spirited the Admiral out through a back alley.

In 1907 Brentano's moved to Fifth Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street. Shucks, that was only yesterday! Even I can remember the wonderful store they had down there, with the originals of all the magazine covers in the side-street windows, and the huge pile of periodicals from all over the world in the basement. It was into this store that Theodore Roosevelt came one day and ordered the pigskin library he took to Africa.

Jump-off-Joe creek in Oregon is named from a pioneer who "jumped off" in 1839.

Two Out-Of-Town Wedding Ceremonies Involve Local And County Personages

Nuptials Read Over Weekend

Two out-of-town weddings took place over the weekend, one in Wooster when Miss Sylvia Baird Williams became the bride of Francis A. Johnson of Williamsport Saturday afternoon; the other when Miss Virginia June Liston and Hans D. Holtzrager exchanged wedding vows Sunday afternoon.

The home of the bride's mother was the setting for the wedding of Miss Sylvia Baird Williams of Wooster and Francis Alfred Johnson of Williamsport. The single-ring ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Dr. John Angus Shaw before an improvised altar decorated with seven branched candelabra, white gladioli and ferns.

Miss Kitty Leihgeber sang "Where E'er You Walk" and "O, Perfect Love" accompanied by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Shaw.

The bride, wearing embroidered organdy and veil of illusion was given in marriage by her father, Frederick E. Williams. Her cascade bouquet was made of white gladioli.

Maid-of-honor, Miss Kate Gurney, classmate of the bride wore blue organdy and carried white gladioli.

Robert Johnson, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

A three-tier wedding cake centered the table at the wedding reception held for immediate families and friends from Williamsport, Columbus, Youngstown, New Athens, New Philadelphia, Sunbury, Cadiz, Williamsburg, Mass., and Champaign, Ill.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Stark Williams of Wooster, is a graduate of class of 1950 of Wooster college.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson of Williamsport is an Ohio State university graduate. He is a farmer.

At present the couple is spending their honeymoon in Great Smoky Mountains.

Miss Virginia June Liston wore a gown of nylon marquisette featuring a bouffant skirt ending in a cathedral train when she became the bride of Hans D. Holztrager. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Liston of Miamisburg formerly of Circleville and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Liston of North Court street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. R. A. Albert in Salem Evangelical Lutheran church of Ellerton. Attendants to the bride included her sister, Miss Marilyn Liston, in pale green dotted Swiss and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Johana Holztrager in pale blue dotted Swiss.

Bradley Gray Wertman, cousin of the bride, served as ringbearer.

Best man was Eugene Weaver. Ushers included Alden Sonander, David Weymeyer and Eugene Smith.

After a reception in the church the couple left for a wedding trip in the south. The bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs. Lenore Holztrager and John Holztrager of Youngstown is a graduate of Miami university and member of Epsilon Pi Tau. The new Mrs. Holztrager is also a graduate of Miami university and was affiliated with Delta Sigma Epsilon. They will live in Ellerton.

Mrs. Alkire was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Charles Baldoser and mother, Mrs. John Riggin, when the dessert course was served.

15-Foot Tropical Tree Thrives In Local Yard

Mrs. D. E. Pickens of 124 Watt street has a 15-foot Mimosa tree in her back yard, believed to be the only one in Circleville. Mimosa trees are native to warm tropical climates although they grow as far north as Virginia and North Carolina.

Mrs. Pickens says her Mimosa tree, which has exotic fringy blossoms of pink and white, bloomed since June and still had a few lingering blossoms.

Mrs. Pickens said the tree was brought to Circleville by Dr. F. C. Schaeffer from the mountains of North Carolina. It was planted in a container and taken to the basement for the first two years of its life here. When it was eventually planted out in the Pickens yard it withstood the Winters and has continued to thrive for about ten years.

It is planted in a sheltered location where it is shielded from the wind.

Mimosa trees have bipinnate leaves which close at night, according to Mrs. Pickens. She says that Dr. and Mrs. Schaeffer have a similar tree planted in the yard of their Columbus home. Mrs. Schaeffer is a native of North Carolina.

MOVIE WORK DAY: 17 HOURS

Ginger Rogers Warning All Movie-Struck Girls

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 — Ginger Rogers, a "glamorland" career girl for 20 years, today warned movie-struck gals:

"Don't chuck your typewriters and come to Hollywood for your so-called glamor jobs."

Ginger was dismayed when she heard of the latest trend in femmes with business futures. Employment agencies and companies have been paging desperately for stenographers—but the cuties will not bite.

"Not glamorous enough," say they.

These same career climbers are turning down the typewriter and shorthand pad for what they think are the glitter jobs in movies, radio, advertising and public relations—in that order.

'Oh, those crazy kids," moaned Ginger.

The blonde screen queen, who has become the model of career girls on celluloid, has a few sage words for the job seekers. And she debunks the glamor idea from personal experience.

"SO THEY THINK working 17 hours a day is glamorous, huh?" countered La Rogers, who has been toiling 20 years in the flickers. During that time about three-fourths of her 60 pictures have cast her as the bread winner.

"Listen to this for the plush, tinselly work of Hollywood," continued Ginger with a heavy sigh. And she gave an hour-by-hour resume of "her day" as a "glamor careerist."

"Up at six, check over lines—then a half hour drive to the studio. Then over to makeup for maybe another half hour, maybe more. Around nine we go before camera—from then on it's a continual grind, cameras and me, until we break for lunch around 12:30.

"I always study lines and confer with directors, etc., during luncheon, then hike back to cameras for shooting until 6 p. m., or thereabouts."

Ginger flicked off a few more daily duties:

'After 6 p. m. I hustle to the 'rushes' for maybe an hour, then take off my makeup either at the studio or at home. That's another half hour. Now let's see—

"Oh, yes, I usually have the writers up for dinner—then we discuss the day's scenes and plot tomorrow's. We usually work until 11 that night, writing and rewriting.

"Then I bone up on tomorrow's lines—and so to bed. And then I usually can't get to sleep for an hour."

This hustle-bustle routine goes on six days a week. Sunday, the hypothetical day of rest, usually turns into more toil time for the fireball—with more script writing and studying, etc.

"ON SATURDAY night, I drag myself out somewhere—just to break the monotony. And then I spend most of my time trying to keep my eyes open," sighed Ginger, who portrays a careerlist-lawyer in her current film, in which she also has a business interest.

Add hours of wardrobe fittings, picture posings and interviews and you have a fair idea of what the glamor job of a movie star resembles.

"Is that awe-inspiring glamor?" Ginger asked job-seekers who revolt at their typewriters and yearn for the over-crowded, ove-worked fields of synthetic "glamor."

"It's all work—and hard work, too," added the star who began working at the age of 13 and has never stopped. Ginger set off a parting shot:

"Maybe you don't know how well off you are."

Ginger Rogers Warning All Movie-Struck Girls

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10 — Ginger Rogers, a "glamorland" career girl for 20 years, today warned movie-struck gals:

"Don't chuck your typewriters and come to Hollywood for your so-called glamor jobs."

Ginger was dismayed when she heard of the latest trend in femmes with business futures. Employment agencies and companies have been paging desperately for stenographers —but the cuties will not bite.

"Not glamorous enough," say they.

'Oh, those crazy kids," moaned Ginger.

The blonde screen queen, who has become the model of career girls on celluloid, has a few sage words for the job seekers. And she debunks the glamor idea from personal experience.

"SO THEY THINK working 17 hours a day is glamorous, huh?" countered La Rogers, who has been toiling 20 years in the flickers. During that time about three-fourths of her 60 pictures have cast her as the bread winner.

"Listen to this for the plush, tinselly work of Hollywood," continued Ginger with a heavy sigh. And she gave an hour-by-hour resume of "her day" as a "glamor careerist."

"Up at six, check over lines—then a half hour drive to the studio. Then over to makeup for maybe another half hour, maybe more. Around nine we go before camera—from then on it's a continual grind, cameras and me, until we break for lunch around 12:30.

"I always study lines and confer with directors, etc., during luncheon, then hike back to cameras for shooting until 6 p. m., or thereabouts."

Ginger flicked off a few more daily duties:

'After 6 p. m. I hustle to the 'rushes' for maybe an hour, then take off my makeup either at the studio or at home. That's another half hour. Now let's see—

"Oh, yes, I usually have the writers up for dinner—then we discuss the day's scenes and plot tomorrow's. We usually work until 11 that night, writing and rewriting.

"Then I bone up on tomorrow's lines—and so to bed. And then I usually can't get to sleep for an hour."

This hustle-bustle routine goes on six days a week. Sunday, the hypothetical day of rest, usually turns into more toil time for the fireball—with more script writing and studying, etc.

"ON SATURDAY night, I drag myself out somewhere—just to break the monotony. And then I spend most of my time trying to keep my eyes open," sighed Ginger, who portrays a careerlist-lawyer in her current film, in which she also has a business interest.

Add hours of wardrobe fittings, picture posings and interviews and you have a fair idea of what the glamor job of a movie star resembles.

"Is that awe-inspiring glamor?" Ginger asked job-seekers who revolt at their typewriters and yearn for the over-crowded, ove-worked fields of synthetic "glamor."

"It's all work—and hard work, too," added the star who began working at the age of 13 and has never stopped. Ginger set off a parting shot:

"Maybe you don't know how well off you are."

DEFENSE SPEEDUP IS URGED

Gen. Clay Gives Data On Effect Of A-Blast

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — Gen. Lucius D. Clay declares that an atom bomb blast would kill almost everyone in a half-mile radius and would spread vast destruction over a two-mile area.

The one-time Berlin Airlift commander, now director of New York state's civilian defense commission, issued his warning in a report to all local defense agencies outlining steps to be taken now to prepare for any future atom attack.

Clay emphasized that his report is not intended to spread alarm, but is prompted by the fact that "as terrible as an atomic disaster might be, thousands of lives can be saved" by prompt, efficient action now.

Clay urged disaster units throughout the state to speedup and coordinate their efforts in preparing for any emergency.

Describing the probable effects of an atom attack on any large community, he said "the public is entitled to the facts."

THE REPORT explained, first, that destruction will be greatest if the bomb goes off in the air above the target area.

Brick and frame buildings up to a mile and a half from the blast center will be completely levelled.

And within three-fourths of a mile from the explosion area, Clay warned, "there will be substantial destruction of all except modern reinforced concrete and heavy-steel frame buildings."

The immediate effects of the bomb are over, he went on, "about ten seconds after the explosion." But within those few moments, virtually everyone within a half-mile of the blast center will be either killed or fatally injured by the force of the explosion, the immense heat, or intense radioactive rays.

It is estimated, as well, that "50 percent of the people in the open 3-4 of a mile away will fail to survive."

Clay said that fires started by the solar-like heat of the explosion "may be expected to consume virtually the entire area within a half-mile radius."

He predicted that glass breakage and plaster damage will be found at distances up to as much as eight miles from the area of major devastation.

Exploding gas mains, water pollution, falling buildings and masonry all will add to the total casualties which, Clay declared, "may be expected to run into tens of thousands."

The New York defense chief pointed out that the "vast majority of our communities need have little apprehension that they will be faced with such a disaster."

HE SAID THESE "safe" areas must be ready to 'put every available resource of manpower, equipment, facilities, and supplies at the disposal of the state when a disaster occurs."

Clay called on all local defense directors to cooperate with the state's defense welfare service in setting up emergency facilities to feed, clothe and house thousands of people.

"Each area not considered as a likely target," he continued, "should agree to accept specified numbers of casualties and homeless."

He directed local officials to bring such private agencies as the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army into their defense programs without delay.

Clay also urged immediate integration of fire and police services into the defense scheme, and recommended the training of auxiliary police forces, as needed.

New York City already has announced plans to organize an auxiliary police force of 45,000 men.

Clay said defense directors should begin a survey of the numbers of doctors and nurses in the community, as well as of all medical facilities in surrounding areas.

He said an inventory should be taken of probable food stocks which would be available in an emergency.

The state defense chief also directed local directors to work out plans with the public utilities for cutting off gas, water and electrical systems damaged in a bombing.

1847 Model Car Has Own Bar And Shower Bath

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10—When Louie Mattar, a San Diego, Cal., garage owner, tells you to make yourself at home in his 1847 auto, he isn't kidding.

Gadgets, most of them homemade, supply all the comforts and conveniences of a modern home—food, drink, entertainment and even a shower.

In the space just below the dashboard is a bar that dispenses whisky and soda from spigots. Other spigots supply hot and cold running water. Three gallons of hot water can be carried in a tank under the hood.

The tanks also supply a shower which can be set up through a connection on the right front fender.

A tape recorder is installed at Mattar's feet which also hooks up with the public address system with loudspeakers at the front of the hood as well as inside the car.

To top all this is an arm rest dividing the rear seat which can be pulled down and a barbecue "pit," electrically operated, can be drawn out to supply food.

"I was offered $10,000 for my car by Hollywood movie companies," Mattar said, "but I wouldn't part with it."

Silk stockings were first worn by Henry II of France in 1547.

Detergents Sell Better Than Soap

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The Association of American Soap Producers announced today that soap sales during the first six months of 1950 lost further ground in competition with synthetic detergents.

It said soap sales in the first half of the year were 11 percent below 1949, but this was more than offset by increased sales of the synthetic detergents. The combined total of both soap and detergent sales showed a gain of nearly four percent over last year.

HE SAID THESE "safe" areas must be ready to 'put every available resource of manpower, equipment, facilities, and supplies at the disposal of the state when a disaster occurs."

Clay called on all local defense directors to cooperate with the state's defense welfare service in setting up emergency facilities to feed, clothe and house thousands of people.

"Each area not considered as a likely target," he continued, "should agree to accept specified numbers of casualties and homeless."

He directed local officials to bring such private agencies as the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army into their defense programs without delay.

Clay also urged immediate integration of fire and police services into the defense scheme, and recommended the training of auxiliary police forces, as needed.

New York City already has announced plans to organize an auxiliary police force of 45,000 men.

Clay said defense directors should begin a survey of the numbers of doctors and nurses in the community, as well as of all medical facilities in surrounding areas.

He said an inventory should be taken of probable food stocks which would be available in an emergency.

The state defense chief also directed local directors to work out plans with the public utilities for cutting off gas, water and electrical systems damaged in a bombing.

1847 Model Car Has Own Bar And Shower Bath

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10—When Louie Mattar, a San Diego, Cal., garage owner, tells you to make yourself at home in his 1847 auto, he isn't kidding.

Gadgets, most of them homemade, supply all the comforts and conveniences of a modern home—food, drink, entertainment and even a shower.

In the space just below the dashboard is a bar that dispenses whisky and soda from spigots. Other spigots supply hot and cold running water. Three gallons of hot water can be carried in a tank under the hood.

The tanks also supply a shower which can be set up through a connection on the right front fender.

A tape recorder is installed at Mattar's feet which also hooks up with the public address system with loudspeakers at the front of the hood as well as inside the car.

To top all this is an arm rest dividing the rear seat which can be pulled down and a barbecue "pit," electrically operated, can be drawn out to supply food.

"I was offered $10,000 for my car by Hollywood movie companies," Mattar said, "but I wouldn't part with it."

Silk stockings were first worn by Henry II of France in 1547.

Detergents Sell Better Than Soap

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The Association of American Soap Producers announced today that soap sales during the first six months of 1950 lost further ground in competition with synthetic detergents.

It said soap sales in the first half of the year were 11 percent below 1949, but this was more than offset by increased sales of the synthetic detergents. The combined total of both soap and detergent sales showed a gain of nearly four percent over last year.

Farmers' Road Builder Cites Plan

Kansas Develops Speedy Program

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 10—J. E. Myler's goal is all-weather transportation to market from every farmstead in Kearny County, Kansas. He is called a "farmers' road builder."

County commissioners hired him to carry out a plan developed by a committee of farmers for speeding construction of farm-to-market roads.

Originally the commissioners wanted to lay out a secondary road system and send plans to the state highway department for approval in allotment of gasoline taxes. Later the county board decided their money would buy more mileage if they built the roadbeds themselves.

They bought dirt-moving equipment and set Myler to work. He supervises grading, ditching, draining and culvert construction. When he finishes, the road is ready for light surfacing and the state department lets a contract.

The program was adopted 3½ years ago. Since then 57 miles of secondary road have been graveled. The county also built a 15-mile detour which was surfaced with light black top by the state. This, with federal and state highways, brings total county all-weather roads to 135 miles.

IN ADDITION, 200 miles of dirt road have been graded and drained. Much of this is on secondary route in preparation for surfacing. Myler expects the improved dirt road mileage to reach 400 by end of 1950 and another 27 miles of secondary will be graveled."

Myler figures $350 a mile for elevating a roadbed. Culverts and drainage cost about $250. Then gravel surfacing contracted through the state, costs about $1,000 a mile for 800 yards. After that the county is responsible for grading, maintaining and regraveling.

The engineer estimates the secondary system will contain 300 miles when it is completed. That will put an all-weather road within three miles of every farm. Then Myler will start building feeders which will bring a road to every man's place.

X-Ray Specialist To Be Brought To Hospital Here

Berger hospital board of governors has given its approval to a proposal from Pickaway County Medical Society that a contract be entered into with an x-ray specialist to have prearranged visiting days in the hospital.

This specialist would take and interpret x-ray pictures requiring special training, for chest and abdominal examinations, thus making available to this community a service for which it is now necessary to take patients to Columbus or more distant places.

The medical society is to make recommendation to the board of a selection of the specialist to do the work.

At a meeting of the board of commissioners there was discussion of a report made by Dr. Worth L. Howard of Akron who was employed by the board to make a survey of conditions at the hospital and to make recommendations as to additional facilities needed.

Some of the recommendations made verbally by Dr. Howard have already been put into effect.

In the opening paragraph of his report, Dr. Howard said that "the present buildings and equipment were found in very good condition and it was also observed that the hospital was exceptionally clean and orderly."

The existing building at the hospital is in the shape of a letter 'T' and Dr. Howard's general suggestion is that additional facilities be added by building so that the 'T' will be converted into an 'H' through the new building being placed at the base of the 'T'.

A new and better ventilated kitchen is suggested to be built into the new part along with a laundry. The present kitchen and dining room would be converted into patients rooms.

The survey furnished by Dr. Howard will be used as a guide to the board of commissioners in arriving at final plans for using the levy provided by the voters at the last election.

Lawyers make the best average score in Army intelligence tests.

Elizabeth's 2nd Baby Reported Due Any Day Now

LONDON, Aug. 10 — London was tense with excitement today over the imminent birth of Princess Elizabeth's second baby.

The infant is expected, according to reliable sources, any time after today.

The child—be it boy or girl—will be third in line of succession to the British throne.

The elder daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth is heir to the crown and is followed in line to the throne by her first child, Bonnie Prince Charles, who was born in November, 1948.

The 21-year-old Elizabeth's gynecologist, Sir William Gilliatt, and the royal "family doctor," Sir John Weir, were reported without confirmation to have moved into Clarence House yesterday.

Clarence House is the 125-year-old house in which the princess and her husband, Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, make their home when the prince is not on naval duty at sea.

Crowds lined the streets outside Clarence House last night and finally dispersed early this morning, leaving the streets deserted except for plainclothes detectives and uniformed police.

Extra Bobbies were added to the patrol to maintain a security ring around the house.

Meanwhile, Prince Philip, who recently returned from his station in Malta, is remaining in constant attendance, although he took time out Wednesday to play a little polo.

Elizabeth's 2nd Baby Reported Due Any Day Now.

LONDON, Aug. 10 — London was tense with excitement today over the imminent birth of Princess Elizabeth's second baby.

The infant is expected, according to reliable sources, any time after today.

The child—be it boy or girl—will be third in line of succession to the British throne.

The elder daughter of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth is heir to the crown and is followed in line to the throne by her first child, Bonnie Prince Charles, who was born in November, 1948.

The 21-year-old Elizabeth's gynecologist, Sir William Gilliatt, and the royal "family doctor," Sir John Weir, were reported without confirmation to have moved into Clarence House yesterday.

Clarence House is the 125-year-old house in which the princess and her husband, Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, make their home when the prince is not on naval duty at sea.

Crowds lined the streets outside Clarence House last night and finally dispersed early this morning, leaving the streets deserted except for plainclothes detectives and uniformed police.

Extra Bobbies were added to the patrol to maintain a security ring around the house.

Meanwhile, Prince Philip, who recently returned from his station in Malta, is remaining in constant attendance, although he took time out Wednesday to play a little polo.

Ex-Army Sergeant Said 'A Nobody' In Spy Ring

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—Twenty-four hours after the arrest of Alfred Dean Slack in Syracuse, FBI agents in New York City picked up another alleged member of the Soviet spy ring—a young man named David Greenglass.

And who was Greenglass? He was a nobody, even more of a cipher as a personality, if possible, than either Slack or Harry Gold, two other "average Americans" accused as spies.

Greenglass is a plump, unimaginative young man, 28, who lived with his wife and two small children in a cold water flat on the Lower East Side in New York.

At the time of his arrest on June 16 Greenglass' wife, Ruth, 26, was in the hospital suffering severe burns as a result of an accident while she was preparing a meal for the family.

During the arraignment Greenglass' thoughts were of his two children, Stephen, 4, and their month-old baby daughter. Wringing his hands, he murmured: "I ought to be fixing the baby's formula."

Greenglass was employed as a machinist in Brooklyn. He was always hard up, known to his friends as a guy who never seemed to have more than a dollar in his pocket. To the public it seemed inconceivable that such a man could have been of any value to the Russians in espionage against the United States.

HIS FATHER, Barnett, now dead, was a native of Russia who became a naturalized American citizen in 1921. His mother, Mrs. Tessie Greenglass, said after her son's arrest:

"You have a child in your arms until a certain age, and then you don't butt in any more." She was weeping softly.

Other relatives described David as "a good boy" and shook their heads in shocked disbelief over the government's charges against him.

Greenglass's neighborhood butcher said: "He was a sort of close-mouthed and kept to himself. But nobody ever thought of him as a spy."

Then the story came out. While stationed as a soldier at the atomic energy plant at Los Alamos, N. M., the government charges, Greenglass made a sketch of a high explosive lens mold and prepared a statement on the atomic bomb project.

This data, the government charges, Greenglass turned over to the courier for the spy ring, Gold, the Philadelphia biochemist, who in turn transmitted it to Russian agents.

That was in June, 1945, and the government says that Greenglass and Gold were working with Dr. Klaus Fuchs, the British atomic scientist who was stationed at Los Alamos. Fuchs, first member of the atomic spy ring to be arrested, is now serving a 14-year prison term in England.

Greenglass, a technician fourth class before his discharge from the Army, was admittedly a former member of the Young Communist League, but insisted that he never became a member of the Communist Party.

The evidence indicated, government agents said, that Greenglass was merely a useful pawn, recruited by another member of the spy ring.

The FBI says that Greenglass, now awaiting trial, has admitted his part in the spy plot.

Edward Scheidt, FBI director in New York, quoted the former Army sergeant as saying:

"I felt it was gross negligence on the part of the United States not to give Russia the information about the atom bomb because she was an ally."

How Greenglass was persuaded to become a spy and the identity of the man who "recruited" him was not revealed until a month later, with the arrest of a fourth man who allegedly betrayed his country to Russia.

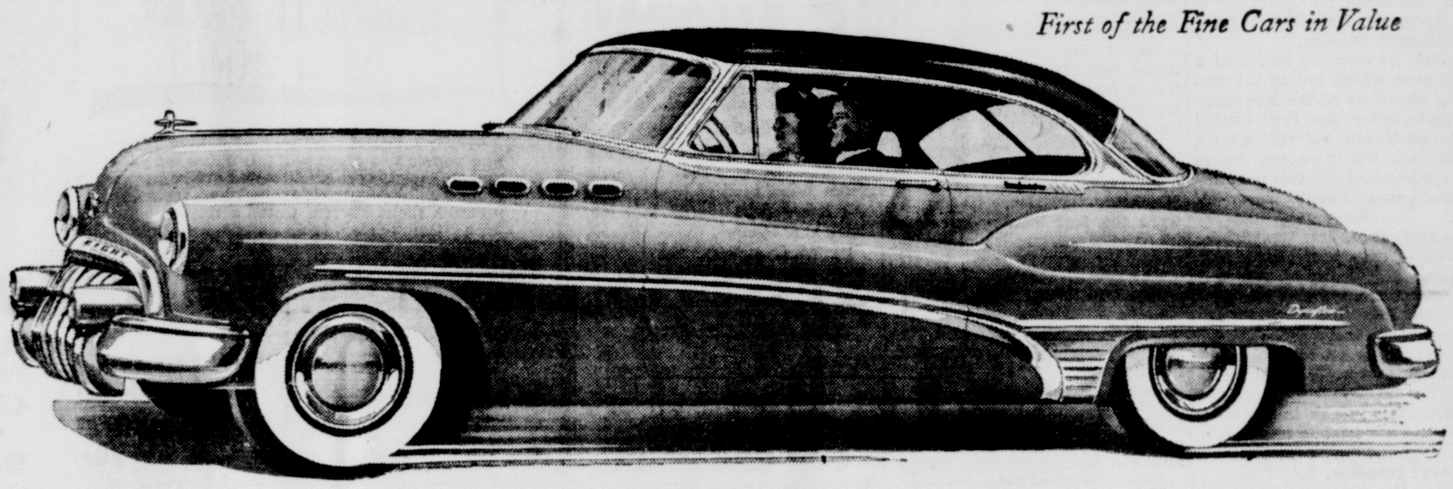
It says SUCCESS-with SPIRIT

First of the Fine Cars in Value



You can see this man has made his mark in life, and while his heart's still young.

You can tell he likes action for his money—that he knows a fine car needn't be the most expensive to give the greatest value.

Yes, such are the things you know of any man, when you note that his car is a ROADMASTER.

Follow him on his spirited way as he pilots this lively motorcar through traffic. Even the lightweights are no match for this road-steady husky—not with the 152-horsepower straight-eight Fireball engine that purrs beneath its bonnet.

Maneuver beside him at the next stop light. Then just try to get away as smoothly, swiftly and silently as Dynaflow Drive gets his ROADMASTER going—and keeps it rolling without shifting, even automatically.

But don't waste time merely envying the man in this great car! Why not emulate him?

With all its outsize room, interior luxury and exterior grace—with all its front-rank prestige, rare performance and matchless ride—a ROADMASTER can be yours for less than some smaller cars cost.

In fact, even if you had a fortune to spend, you couldn't make a more fortunate buy in the fine-car field.

So we suggest you try a few minutes behind the wheel. We're confident they will convince you that ROADMASTER has everything you could ever ask for in any motorcar—although your Buick dealer asks a good bit less for ROADMASTER than you might pay for other top-line cars.

First of the Fine Cars in Value

You can see this man has made his mark in life, and while his heart's still young.

You can tell he likes action for his money—that he knows a fine car needn't be the most expensive to give the greatest value.

Yes, such are the things you know of any man, when you note that his car is a ROADMASTER.

Follow him on his spirited way as he pilots this lively motorcar through traffic. Even the lightweights are no match for this road-steady husky—not with the 152-horsepower straight-eight Fireball engine that purrs beneath its bonnet.

Maneuver beside him at the next stop light. Then just try to get away as smoothly, swiftly and silently as Dynaflow Drive gets his ROADMASTER going—and keeps it rolling without shifting, even automatically.

But don't waste time merely envying the man in this great car! Why not emulate him?

With all its outsize room, interior luxury and exterior grace—with all its front-rank prestige, rare performance and matchless ride—a ROADMASTER can be yours for less than some smaller cars cost.

In fact, even if you had a fortune to spend, you couldn't make a more fortunate buy in the fine-car field.

So we suggest you try a few minutes behind the wheel. We're confident they will convince you that ROADMASTER has everything you could ever ask for in any motorcar—although your Buick dealer asks a good bit less for ROADMASTER than you might pay for other top-line cars.

DREISBACH NAME HONORED

Memorial To Minister To Be Dedicated Sunday

A special dedication service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday for a newly-erected memorial to the Rev. John Dreisbach, one of the early founders of the Evangelical church and of Ebenezer church.

The services will be held at the site of the former Ebenezer church, about five miles southeast of Circleville just off the Kingston Pike.

Memorial to Rev. Mr. Dreisbach has been erected by the Ebenezer Social Circle, the Ohio Evangelical United Brethren conference and members of the Dreisbach family.

Rev. Mr. Dreisbach began his ministery in Eastern Pennsylvania in 1807 when he was only 18 years old. He was the fifth itinerate preacher of the newly begun Evangelical church.

The minister labored day and night with the founder of the church, Jacob Albright, as they rode the frontier of Pennsylvania and surrounding states, preaching and establishing churches of the Evangelical Association among the German peoples.

He was elected as the denomination's first presiding elder in 1814, and continued to labor diligently to enlarge the work of the church. Not only was he a great preacher, but spent much time in writing.

HE COMPILED the first catechism which was used by the church and, with a brother minister, he arranged the German hymn book of the church and improved the "Articles of Faith and Discipline."

In later life, as a resident of Pickaway County, he gathered material for the early history of the church. In 1828 and 1829 he was elected as a member of the Pennsylvania state legislature and at a later date was talked of as a candidate for governor of the state, but he did not have ambitions in politics.

In 1816 he was the leader of a movement which united the two young churches of the Evangelical Association and the United Brethren. These efforts were again resumed in recent years and the union of the two denominations came about Nov. 16, 1946.

In 1831, Rev. Mr. Dreisbach moved to Ohio and purchased a farm in Pickaway County, just about a mile east of the Kingston Pike and five miles southeast of Circleville.

However, his children, of which there were 13, cared mostly for the farm and the minister continued his labors in the clergy among his friends and neighbors, establishing churches wherever possible.

During the following years he was stationed on the Pickaway Circuit, for a time at Dayton and also on the Chillicothe Circuit. During this time the Rev. Mr. Dreisbach gave a small section of land from his farm for the purpose of building a church and for a cemetery lot.

On this plot of ground he and his sons built almost single handedly what came to be known as the Ebenezer Evangelical church. This church was used for a good many years, but was dismantled several years ago after not having been in use for some time. It is at the place of the entrance way of this church where the present memorial has been erected, using the stones which were the foundation stones of the church for its base.

In 1871, Rev. Mr. Dreisbach died and was buried in the graveyard of the Ebenezer church.

MANY OF THE Dreisbach family settled in and around Circleville and there are many of the minister's descendents living in and about the city today.

Two grand-children are still living. They are Mrs. Charles Nauman, over ninety years old, of South Washington street, and Mrs. Thomas Woodside, of near Bloomington, Illinois. A number of great grandchildren also are still living.

They are Mrs. E. O. Crites, Mrs. H. D. Jackson, Marvin H. Dreisbach, Harry Dreisbach, Orin Dreisbach and Mrs. Eva Dreisbach of Circleville and John Dreisbach, who resides east of town on the original Dreisbach farm. Other great grandchildren nearby are Mrs. Fannie Link and Shirley Dreisbach of Columbus and Charles Gildersleeve of Whisler.

The Rev. James A. Herbst of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church is to direct the dedication service. Rev. E. E. Nietz, superintendent of the southern district of the Ohio EUB conference, will be present to lead in the service of dedication and Rev. Roy B. Leedy, historian of the Ohio conference, will present an address entitled "What Meaneth These Stones?"

Other visiting ministers from the surrounding area who will have part are the Rev. H. Glenn Crabtree of Stoutsville and the Rev. C. L. Kern from Lancaster.

Hymns, prayers and other materials written by Rev. John Dreisbach will be used in the service of dedication.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

During the last week I have been working as a member of the Senate committee on the new tax bill which aims to increase the government income at the rate of $5 billion a year. No one likes to increase taxes, but today there appears to be no alternative in view of the mess in which we find ourselves throughout the world and the strong position in which our policy has placed the Russian Communists.

The President's budget presented in January contemplated a deficit of $5 billion for the year ending July 1, 1951.

I had hoped that we might cut the expenses of the government a sufficient amount so that there would be only a small deficit this year and a balanced budget next year. I felt convinced that savings of $5 billion could be accomplished in our domestic nonmilitary and foreign aid programs.

But today it is impossible to pay our expenses through savings in domestic expenditures. The President is asking $10 billion more for the armed forces; and in view of the world situation, it looks as if we would have to spend at the rate of at least $25 billion on our own forces for a number of years.

Military aid to foreign countries is now requested at the rate of $4 billion, and other expenses incidental to preparedness certainly means a gross increase of $15 billion.

SAVING IN DOMESTIC expenses is even more important now, but it is hard to see how such savings could exceed $5 billion a year. That means that we face a net increase of $10 billion in our government expense, giving us an annual expenditure, when we get going, of $50 billion instead of $40 billion.

I have emphasized the vital necessity of paying for this condition as we go. We already have a huge debt. If we ever get into an all-out war, we will have to add to it substantially. During the second World War many people thought we should pay for the war out of current taxes. But we were spending about half the entire national production on war, and we could find no tax system to raise that amount without unbearable hardship and injustice to many. The reliance on borrowing, however, is directly responsible for the 70 percent inflation in prices over pre-war. No matter what controls are imposed, you can only delay inflation if the government borrows $50 billion a year.

There is no reason at all why a tax system should not be devised to meet our present expenses as we see them now. It will be unpleasant. It will delay the development of civilian progress. It will postpone many improvements I should like to see made in welfare services. But that is the cost of Russian aggression and our foreign policy.

IN SPITE OF A gradually increasing production, we cannot pay the cost of war and also enjoy everything we would like to have at home. Increased taxes take away from the people the money they would like to spend on their own living and use it in support of our soldiers and our allies in foreign lands.

The tax bill to be passed is regarded as merely a stop gap. An increase of $5 billion will not ultimately balance the budget, but the additional spending will get started slowly, and with this bill there should not be any very large deficit during the first six months of 1951. A thorough rewriting of the tax system will have to be undertaken during that period.

The current bill does only three things:

(1) It continues all the existing excise taxes which were about to be reduced.

(2) It increases corporation taxes about 20 percent, increasing the rate on most corporations from 38 percent to 45 percent of net profits. The question of an excess profits tax on corporations will probably be postponed until next year, although there is much support for it today.

I believe a general increase in rate is better on the whole, but in the end there will probably be some form of excess profits tax.

(3) The individual income tax rate is increased but not the exemptions, the total increase ranging from 15 to 20 percent of what you pay today. This is accomplished by eliminating the percentage reduction granted in 1948.

War is a tragedy. It is highly destructive of freedom itself. Whether we could go through a third world war and maintain the liberty of our people at home is certainly open to question. At best, we will have a highly regimented economy.

But the more frankly we face the facts, and pay now the cost of what we are doing now, the greater the hope of retaining in this country the liberty which we are trying to protect from foreign attack.

Truckers Told Start Policing Own Industry

MACKINAC, Mich., Aug. 10—The trucking industry has been warned that it must start policing its business or face drastic legislation by states.

Ohio State Senator Fred Adams of Bowling Green issued the warning yesterday at the regional midwest conference of the Council of State Governments where highway safety was discussed. Twelve states are represented. He said:

"The problem in Ohio has become very acute. More than 35 percent of our accidents involve trucks and while the trucking industry has recognized the problem and established a set of standards, many independent truckers run over our highways haphazardly."

The Ohio lawmaker pointed out that truckers coming under Ohio's Public Utility Commission work 24 hours and rest eight hours. Independents, he said, work their drivers 16 and 20 hours.

Adams declared:

"Safety factors are thus ignored and accidents occur."

"It is my opinion that if we legislators act swiftly, conscientiously and fairly we can find a middle ground on which the trucking industry can live economically and will be satisfactory to the great majority of Americans who drive passenger cars.

"But if we fail to find that middle ground the day will come when people will demand and get drastic regulations."

Draft Eligibles Given Warning

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10 — Ray J. Abbaticchio Jr., FBI chief in the Cleveland area, warned draft eligible men last night that violators of the Selective Service Act would be immediately prosecuted.

Abbaticchio said any violators would be brought to the attention of the United States attorney.

His warning came as it was announced that draft physical examinations would be given 2,535 Cuyahoga County registrants in September as part of a state physical examination quota of 15,000.

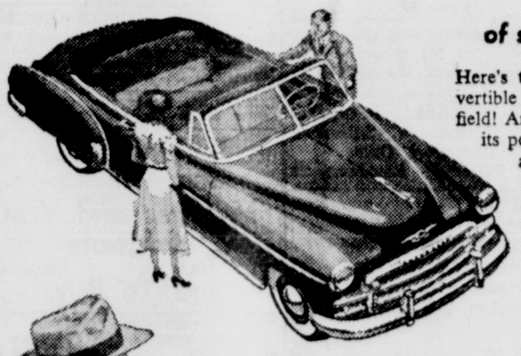
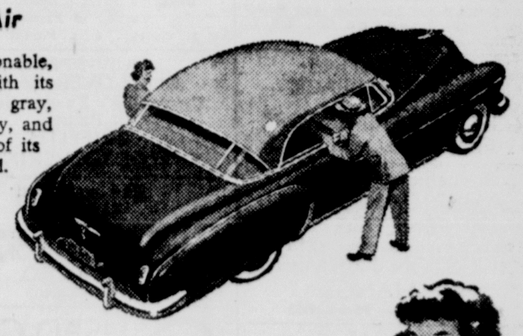
wide and wonderful choice
...and at the lowest prices, too!



Come in and take your choice of swank Convertible or steel-topped Bel Air

Here's the most beautiful Convertible in the entire low-price field! And one ride will tell you its performance is as smooth and spirited as its looks. The automatic top lifts or lowers at the touch of a button to assure perfect comfort in all weather.

Choose the fleet, fashionable, steel-topped Bel Air, with its extra-wide windows and gray, leather-trimmed upholstery, and you'll have the only car of its kind in the low-price field. A distinctive style star of the finest quality and a performance star as well!



Take your choice of Standard Drive or POWERGLIDE Automatic Transmission

You can buy a Chevrolet with the sensational Powerglide Automatic Transmission* and 105-h.p. Valve-in-Head Engine for finest no-shift driving at lowest cost or a Chevrolet with the highly improved standard Valve-in-Head Engine and Silent Synchro-Mesh Transmission for finest standard driving at lowest cost. Both are exclusive to Chevrolet in its field.

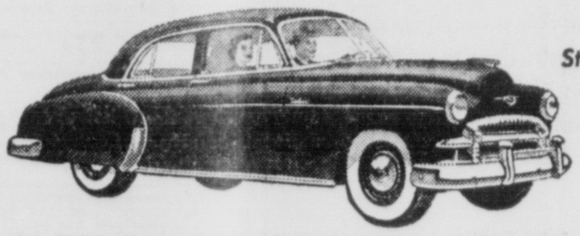
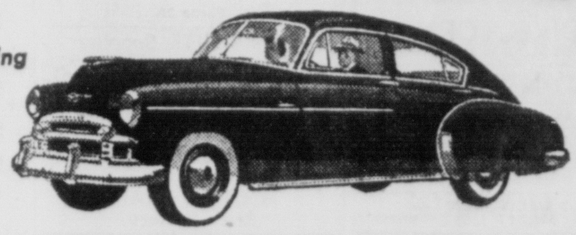
Combination of Powerglide Automatic Transmission and 105-h.p. Engine optional on De Luxe models at extra cost.*

Take your choice of Styleline or Fleetline styling at the same price





Many an admiring glance will follow you when you roll by in your new Chevrolet with Body by Fisher. That's true whether you choose a Styleline model or a Fleetline model. Both are available on all Chevrolet sedans and at the same prices! Remember—Chevrolet is the only low-priced car that offers these two outstandingly beautiful types of styling . . . thus giving you an opportunity to express your own individual taste in motor car beauty. Come in, convince yourself that only Chevrolet offers such a wide and wonderful choice at lowest cost!

Lusty Song Sings Sweet In Big Trot

Hambletonian Taken In 2:02 Both Heats

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — Lusty Song today is the prima donna of the nation's three-year-old trotters.

This magnificent colt from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Duquoin, Ill., sang a sweet tune in the 25th running of the Hambletonian in Goshen, N.Y. yesterday to enrich his owners by exactly $40,537.72.

This represented the major portion of the $75,209.12 which was distributed among the first six horses in the field of 13 which fought for supremacy in the race which reinsmen like to refer to as the Kentucky Derby of the trotters.

Lusty Song won as a champion should. He grabbed an early lead in both heats and then fought off repeated challenges from various rivals throughout the long grind. And in each heat his winning time was an identical 2:02.

AND IN EACH heat the favorite Star's Pride, owned by Ronald Harriman and Larry Sheppard, finished second, beaten by a little over a length and then by a stretched neck.

There should be no excuses in this race, as both heats were truly run and in each several nags took a crack at the champ but none of them could hold him.

If thoroughbreds had to race on the kite-shaped track at Goshen most of them probably would bolt clear over the outside fence. There is short run to the first turn and then the horses must turn at an acute angle and go tearing down a long back stretch before hitting another short turn.

The winner was perfectly handled by young Del Miller. Every time a nag moved up to challenge Lusty Song, Miller seemed to cluck a little to the fast moving colt which always responded with that little extra something a true champion always keeps in reserve.

In each heat the second half of the mile was run faster than the first and no horse with any kiyi in him is going to stand up under that with one horse after another taking a shot at him unless he has a great heart.

Although beaten, Star's Pride was by no means disgraced. He raced two fine heats under the urging of Johnny Simpson and earned a worthwhile $14,740 for his joint owners.

Lord Steward, piloted by Guy Crippen, and owned by Ralph Kroening of Milwaukee, got $8,440 third money. Arden Homestead's Florican drew $4,422 for fourth; Milky Way Stable's Stuart Hanover earned $2,948 for fifth and Joe Purcell's Darn Flashy got $2,211 for sixth place.

Sokolsky's

The pressure of Soviet China upon Soviet Russia to liquidate Chiang and to remove Nationalist China from the United Nations must have been terrific, Molotov, for instance, is reported from China to have been in Peiping on and off for most of a year. All the rumors that Mao Tze-tung might become a Tito were associated with this problem. For as long as Chiang remained in Formosa and held a seat in the United Nations, Mao was losing face in China and was involved in costly and unexpected guerrilla warfare.

So Russia, on Jan. 13, started a boycott of the United Nations. When that did not work, Marshal Malinovsky, in charge of the Far Eastern Soviet army, was ordered to undertake the campaign in Korea. When the United Nations acted too swiftly, and from Russia's standpoint illegally, in the Korean matter, Russia returned to the United Nations and ordered Jacob Malik to assume the role of provocateur—to delay, confound and confuse the nations of the world.

Lusty Song Sings Sweet In Big Trot

Hambletonian Taken In 2:02 Both Heats

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 — Lusty Song today is the prima donna of the nation's three-year-old trotters.

This magnificent colt from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Duquoin, Ill., sang a sweet tune in the 25th running of the Hambletonian in Goshen, N.Y. yesterday to enrich his owners by exactly $40,537.72.

This represented the major portion of the $75,209.12 which was distributed among the first six horses in the field of 13 which fought for supremacy in the race which reinsmen like to refer to as the Kentucky Derby of the trotters.

Lusty Song won as a champion should. He grabbed an early lead in both heats and then fought off repeated challenges from various rivals throughout the long grind. And in each heat his winning time was an identical 2:02.

AND IN EACH heat the favorite Star's Pride, owned by Ronald Harriman and Larry Sheppard, finished second, beaten by a little over a length and then by a stretched neck.

There should be no excuses in this race, as both heats were truly run and in each several nags took a crack at the champ but none of them could hold him.

If thoroughbreds had to race on the kite-shaped track at Goshen most of them probably would bolt clear over the outside fence. There is short run to the first turn and then the horses must turn at an acute angle and go tearing down a long back stretch before hitting another short turn.

The winner was perfectly handled by young Del Miller. Every time a nag moved up to challenge Lusty Song, Miller seemed to cluck a little to the fast moving colt which always responded with that little extra something a true champion always keeps in reserve.

In each heat the second half of the mile was run faster than the first and no horse with any kiyi in him is going to stand up under that with one horse after another taking a shot at him unless he has a great heart.

Although beaten, Star's Pride was by no means disgraced. He raced two fine heats under the urging of Johnny Simpson and earned a worthwhile $14,740 for his joint owners.

Lord Steward, piloted by Guy Crippen, and owned by Ralph Kroening of Milwaukee, got $8,440 third money. Arden Homestead's Florican drew $4,422 for fourth; Milky Way Stable's Stuart Hanover earned $2,948 for fifth and Joe Purcell's Darn Flashy got $2,211 for sixth place.

Sokolsky's

The pressure of Soviet China upon Soviet Russia to liquidate Chiang and to remove Nationalist China from the United Nations must have been terrific, Molotov, for instance, is reported from China to have been in Peiping on and off for most of a year. All the rumors that Mao Tze-tung might become a Tito were associated with this problem. For as long as Chiang remained in Formosa and held a seat in the United Nations, Mao was losing face in China and was involved in costly and unexpected guerrilla warfare.

So Russia, on Jan. 13, started a boycott of the United Nations. When that did not work, Marshal Malinovsky, in charge of the Far Eastern Soviet army, was ordered to undertake the campaign in Korea. When the United Nations acted too swiftly, and from Russia's standpoint illegally, in the Korean matter, Russia returned to the United Nations and ordered Jacob Malik to assume the role of provocateur—to delay, confound and confuse the nations of the world.

5-GAME LEAD AT STAKE

Quaker City Crackerjacks Face Crucial Giant Set

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The youthful Philadelphia Phillies, zooming toward the realization of a 35-year-old dream, began a pivotal four-game series tonight in which the figures distort the truth.

Preservation of Philadelphia's five-game National League lead is the cause to which the Phillies must adhere when they engage the New York Giants, a fifth-place club, nine games to the rear.

Such a meeting would seem insignificant at other times, but now it is a double test and one which may throw the balance either way in regard to the Phils' chances for gaining their first flag since they won their only one back in 1915.

In reality, the hottest clubs in the majors are meeting for the next four days.

Philadelphia has won 14 out of 18. The Giants have copped 17 out of 19.

THE QUAKER CITY crackerjacks were successful yesterday while New York failed. Thus the Durochermen come into the series minus any hefty win streak, but the reputation is present nevertheless.

The Phillies dumped the Brooklyn Dodgers 6½ games off the pace as they swept the two-game set, 5-4. A bases-loaded setup, engineered around Granny Hamner's double, set the stage for Mike Goliat to drive home the winning run with a long fly in the eighth inning.

This broke a 4-4 deadlock between righthanders Russ Meyer and Erv Palica that had been achieved over the first three innings.

Three of Philadelphia's runs resulted from Del Ennis' 25th homerun and Andy Seminick's 14th, with one on.

Fireman Jim Konstanty came on the scene for the fiftieth time this season in the eighth inning to preserve Meyer's seventh victory.

The sad tidings for Brooklyn were the fact that they outhit the hustling Sawyermen, 11-6.

Lefty Bob Chipman, a refugee from Boston's pullpen, proved to be a New York Giant-killer for the third time this season. Chipman snapped New York's eight-game victory skein with a four-hit, 3 to 2, victory for the Braves.

Bob Elliott was the big knocker for the Tribe with a couple of doubles off loser Jim Hearn. Elliott scored two of the runs and drove the other one in.

The Cincinnati-Chicago and St. Louis-Pittsburgh games were rained out.

Vic Wertz' 24th circuit clout with a mate aboard in the eighth inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 5 to 3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and allowed the Bengals to stay three games ahead in the American League.

WERTZ BECAME the second man in history ever to drive a ball into Comiskey Parks' centerfield bullpen.

Righthander Freddie Hutchinson, who yielded nine hits, scored his thirteenth win of the season on the basis of the blow.

Big Vic Raschi was the show as the New York Yankees edged the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1. Raschi won his fourteenth game with his second straight three-hit performance.

The righthander had a perfect no-hitter going for six and two-thirds innings. With two gone in the seventh, Billy Goodman beat out a hit to deep short in a very close play at first base.

Al Zarilla eased things in the eighth inning by smacking one clear into the rightfield seats for his fifth homer.

Young Chuck Stobbs gave up only five singles to the Yankees. Hank Bauer's one-bagger delivered the first New York run in the first inning and Phil Rizzuto brought the other home in the fifth with a squeeze bunt.

Raschi ended the game with nine strikeouts, and no walks.

Al Benton won a game and lost one as the Cleveland Indians split a twinight doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns.

Two homers with a man aboard by Larry Doby paced the Tribe to a 4 to 3 win in the opener and Benton was the winner in relief. The Browns took the night game 10 to 8 when Ken Wood hit a two-run homer off Benton in the eighth, again as a reliever. St. Louis had scored eight runs in the fifth. Al Rosen hit homer No. 30 for the Indians.

Joe Tipton's single with the bases loaded in the eleventh inning enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to nose out the Washington Senators, 7 to 6.

Sandy Hill Shining In Toledo As Teams Prep For All-Star Tilt

Sandy Hill has made Circleville known in Toledo during the first full week of practice for the Aug. 18 North-South All-Star football classic.

Sandy so far has shown himself as an outstanding backfield man in the South team lineup as the squad readies itself for the coming grid event.

The Circleville speedster so far has avoided injury in the intensified workouts, although one of his teammates and a boy from the North crew have been sent home with injuries.

Russell Favorite of Troy, Miami Valley star halfback, has been returned to his home after complaining of sciatic nerve trouble.

Irvin Crable of Massillon, one of the top backfield men on the North lineup, has been sent home with a badly sprained ankle.

HILL WITHSTOOD a rough scrimmage session Wednesday to receive the limelight in the South attack force, vying for honors with Al Scabold of Middletown and Joe Powers of Springfield.

Ed Demyan of Mansfield collected honors in the North team's backfield during its scrimmage session.

Steve Brudzinski, coach of the fleet-footed Hill, is expected to join the lad next week in Toledo.

Brudzinski, selected one of the top five coaches in Southern Ohio by fellow coaches and newsmen for his work in putting forth two undefeated and untied teams in as many years, is at present recuperating from a fractured elbow in a Columbus hospital.

The coach received the injury last week when he fell backwards from a ladder while working. He was expected to return to Circleville late Thursday or Friday.

Robinson Clips Fusari Easily In Benefit Match

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 10—Sugar Ray Robinson—having proved nothing in the welterweight division can beat him except the weight limit—renewed his demands today for a shot at the middleweight boxing championship.

Robinson disposed of Challenger Charlie Fusari last night with a clean-cut 15-round decision that left his blond foe bleeding and befuddled though still gamely on his feet. Sugar Ray lost only one round and another was called even.

For his labors Robinson was paid exactly $1, the balance of his purse going to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, for benefit of which the bout was staged in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium.

A celebrity-studded crowd of 25,000 saw the fight and paid $150,000, approximately one-third of which went to the Runyon fund.

Robinson controlled the fighting throughout. Only in the fourth round and for a part of the twelfth did Fusari look the part of a challenger for Sugar Ray. Robinson opened a cut beside Fusari's left eye in the second round with a stiff right, and he bloodied Charlie's nose in the eighth.

The only thing Robinson didn't have—after the rigors of making the 147-pound limit, ounce by sweating ounce—was a punch authoritative enough to knock out the rugged Fusari.

Eagles Arrive For Grid Test With All-Stars

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—The Philadelphia Eagles arrive here today for a day of pre-game rest and a secret workout under the lights of Soldier Field where they meet the college football All-Stars tomorrow night.

The National Pro League champions rank two-touchdown favorites over the college stars despite the loss of Pat McHugh, the Eagles' ace pass defender, due to a knee injury.

In Delafield, Wis., the All-Stars scheduled a brief tapering-off drill—with emphasis on the passing of First-String Quarterback Travis Tidwell to the best lineup of receivers any All-Star team has had in years.

Dr. Eddie Anderson of Holy Cross, All-Star coach, will bring the collegians here tomorrow. Only two are nursing injuries—Emil Sitko, Notre Dame back, who has a pulled muscle, and Porter Payne, Georgia guard, who has an infected foot. Both are expected to play.

Eagles Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale said Clyde Scott probably will start at right half in place of Bosh Pritchard, who was slowed by a knee injury in recent drills, but is expected to see action against the All-Stars.

The professionals' top running threats — Left Halfback Steve Van Buren, and Fullbacks Joe Muha and Jack Myers—all are in good shape.

Bobby Locke Favored To Win World's Toga

CHICAGO, Aug. 10—The big show at George S. May's Tam O'Shanter Country Club here rings up the curtain today on the final act—the $54,000 world championship of golf.

If the finale is as interestingly confused as the first three acts, it promises to be quite a performance.

Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, who missed clinching the All-American men's championship Tuesday when a ball hung on the lip of the 18th hole, overpowered Lloyd Mangrum with a putting iron in the 18-hole playoff that followed yesterday.

Locke, who rarely shows emotion, deadpanned his way through to a three-under-par 34-35—69. Mangrum, the Tam O'Shanter pro who won the preceding two tourneys, wandered on and off the fairways and produced 37-36—73.

Locke thus went into the "world's" as the favorite.

Almost any of the 32 men professionals could come up with a winning score. They included the world's best—and the first place purse of $11,000 is quite an incentive.

Feature Trot Is Divided

CHICAGO, Aug. 10 — Jim Dandy Gift and Moses divided honors last night in the feature $1,800 trot at Sportsman's Park in Chicago.

Jim Dandy Gift trotted the mile first heat in 2:07 4-5 and was followed across the line by Joe Donlin and Gene Long.

Moses posted an identical time in the mile second division. Jim Dandy Gift was second and Lee Dewey third.

Directrix Cops Her 4th Race

WESTBURY, N. Y., Aug. 10—Directrix copped her fourth race of the season in 17 starts last night at Roosevelt Raceway as Frank Darish reined home the four-year-old brown mare in 2:06, a length ahead of the fast closing General Electric. Step placed third.

The winner is owned by Howard Lyons of Harrington, Del. Gay One, the favorite, had rough going in her attempt to take the lead at the three-quarter pole, challenged briefly for a contending position, but faded out at the finish.

Rhyan Holding Publinx Lead

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — Defending Champion Dick Rhyan of Wyandot still was in good shape today to take his second Columbus Public Links golf tournament.

He whipped Dick Zimmerman, Wyandot, yesterday 3 and 2, despite a series of showers which marred most of the day's play.

Barney Hunt, the qualifying medalist, another Wyandot player, whitewashed G. P. Anderson, a fellow club member, 5 and 4.

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10 — Defending Champion Dick Rhyan of Wyandot still was in good shape today to take his second Columbus Public Links golf tournament.

He whipped Dick Zimmerman, Wyandot, yesterday 3 and 2, despite a series of showers which marred most of the day's play.

Barney Hunt, the qualifying medalist, another Wyandot player, whitewashed G. P. Anderson, a fellow club member, 5 and 4.

Sandy Hill Shining In Toledo As Teams Prep For All-Star Tilt

Sandy Hill has made Circleville known in Toledo during the first full week of practice for the Aug. 18 North-South All-Star football classic.

Sandy so far has shown himself as an outstanding backfield man in the South team lineup as the squad readies itself for the coming grid event.

The Circleville speedster so far has avoided injury in the intensified workouts, although one of his teammates and a boy from the North crew have been sent home with injuries.

Russell Favorite of Troy, Miami Valley star halfback, has been returned to his home after complaining of sciatic nerve trouble.

Irvin Crable of Massillon, one of the top backfield men on the North lineup, has been sent home with a badly sprained ankle.

HILL WITHSTOOD a rough scrimmage session Wednesday to receive the limelight in the South attack force, vying for honors with Al Scabold of Middletown and Joe Powers of Springfield.

Ed Demyan of Mansfield collected honors in the North team's backfield during its scrimmage session.

Steve Brudzinski, coach of the fleet-footed Hill, is expected to join the lad next week in Toledo.

Brudzinski, selected one of the top five coaches in Southern Ohio by fellow coaches and newsmen for his work in putting forth two undefeated and untied teams in as many years, is at present recuperating from a fractured elbow in a Columbus hospital.

The coach received the injury last week when he fell backwards from a ladder while working. He was expected to return to Circleville late Thursday or Friday.

Robinson Clips Fusari Easily In Benefit Match

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 10—Sugar Ray Robinson—having proved nothing in the welterweight division can beat him except the weight limit—renewed his demands today for a shot at the middleweight boxing championship.

Robinson disposed of Challenger Charlie Fusari last night with a clean-cut 15-round decision that left his blond foe bleeding and befuddled though still gamely on his feet. Sugar Ray lost only one round and another was called even.

For his labors Robinson was paid exactly $1, the balance of his purse going to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, for benefit of which the bout was staged in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium.

A celebrity-studded crowd of 25,000 saw the fight and paid $150,000, approximately one-third of which went to the Runyon fund.

Robinson controlled the fighting throughout. Only in the fourth round and for a part of the twelfth did Fusari look the part of a challenger for Sugar Ray. Robinson opened a cut beside Fusari's left eye in the second round with a stiff right, and he bloodied Charlie's nose in the eighth.

The only thing Robinson didn't have—after the rigors of making the 147-pound limit, ounce by sweating ounce—was a punch authoritative enough to knock out the rugged Fusari.

Pitcher Joe Hill Homers To Win; Hardwares Tally

Tigers scored a 7-6 victory over the Phillies Wednesday in a midget baseball game in Ted Lewis Park.

Joe Hill, winning pitcher for the Tigers, sewed up the three-inning contest in the final frame with a homerun with two men aboard.

Harpster and Yost softball team followed the midget tilt with a 12-6 victory over Boyers in a Circleville Night Softball League tilt.

Earl "Red" Palm was winning hurler for the hardware aggregation during the tilt, backed up by the big bat of Ovid Timmons, who slashed out two homeruns during the encounter.

Dick Shaw, Harpster and Yost Second baseman, was knocked out of play in the late innings of the game when a baserunner collided with him on a cutoff play.

3 Serious Swine Diseases Spreading On Midwest Farms

Local Agent Gives Data On Maladies

Veterinary Aid Is Recommended

Three serious swine diseases that were once virtually unknown in this part of the country are now invading mid-western farms.

Larry A. Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, said Thursday that the American Foundation for Animal Health had issued the warning.

Reports from veterinarians indicate that "brain fever," infectious rhinitis and intestinal edema are killing pigs in scattered areas this Summer and appear to be spreading.

"Brain fever," known also as encephalitis, is due to an infection of the brain. Affected hogs manifest nervous symptoms and may become paralyzed.

The second disease, infectious rhinitis, resembles "bull nose" in pigs—but the latter condition arises from injuries to the snout.

INFECTIOUS RHINITIS, however, is a contagious disease which may not cause its heaviest damage until the second year after it enters the herd. Noses of infected pigs have a "dished-in" appearance and many of them fail to make proper gains.

Intestinal edema usually strikes 10 to 12-week-old pigs. The stricken animals may refuse to eat, lose coordination and stumble about the lot. Most of them die.

"With these new maladies further complicating control of swine diseases," Best said, "farmers should keep as especial lookout for peculiar behavior and sickness in their swine herds. If trouble appears, they can help prevent heavy losses by having a veterinarian examine the animals before the condition gets out of control."

Miss Ohio Is Selected

COLUMBUS, Aug. 10—Gray-eyed Irene Farren of Grand River is Miss Ohio of 1950.

The petite 19-year-old brunette won the contest sponsored by the Ohio Junior Chamber of Commerce here last night. She will represent Ohio in the Miss America beauty pageant in Atlantic City Sept. 5-.

Miss Farren is five feet three inches tall and weighs 105 pounds.

The other three finalists in last night's contest were Elaine Sz.nova of Cleveland; Helen Stone of Russells Point and Vivian Cooper of Columbus.

Elaborate Police Trap Catches Youth In $25,000 Blackmail Try

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10—Twenty-one-year-old Robert Grier rehashed a tale in his jail cell today of how he attempted to blackmail a Cleveland Transit System official in order to obtain $25,000 to buy his mother a home and get married.

Grier, arrested late yesterday in an elaborately laid police trap, admitted orally to police that he tried to blackmail Donald C. Hyde, CTS general manager.

Hyde, who helped detectives capture the youth in a movie-like trap, said that he did not know any of the suspects involved in the plot, and did not know why he should be chosen as the blackmailers' target.

Grier was picked up by detectives posing as street sweepers and window washers as Hyde handed him a white envelope, supposedly containing $25,000, but actually containing two dollars and tissue paper, at one of Cleveland's busiest corners.

Picked up for questioning after the youth's capture were Grier's brother, William Jr., 18, and sister, Florine, 15, and Miss Virginia Evans, 20.

FLORINE GRIER was released after questioning although Detective Inspector James E. McArthur said all four admitted their part in the extortion attempt.

A typewriter on which a threatening letter was written to Hyde was found in the Grier home.

The letter, sent Aug. 1, said that unless Hyde turned over the money the writer would disclose "irregularities" in his past and threatened him and his family with bodily harm. Hyde would not disclose any other facts concerning the letter, however.

Upon receiving the letter, the CTS official called McArthur, who set up the trap for the youth.

Hyde talked to a man who described himself as an "agent" of the blackmailer Monday and Tuesday and made arrangements to meet him at the downtown corner. He would not disclose details of the telephone conversation.

Hyde, accompanied by Ballistic Superintendent David L. Cowles, met the youth as 11 detectives, dressed in workmen's attire, watched the transaction. When Hyde handed him the envelope, McArthur made the arrest.
